WORKING TO GET AT THE DEAD

Commander Young Sends a Message to Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Commander Lucien Young of the gunboat Bennington at San Diego, California, last night sent the following telegram to the Navy Department.

"Arrangements are being made to bury the dead at Fort Rosecrans Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Several bodies pinned in under the boilers covered by water. Have engaged fire engine to pump out so as to assist in their recovery. Also cutting away steel bulkheads in order to get at them. Expect several men to die during night. Will report department in the morning. Everything that is possible to be done for the living and the dead. Only able to identify one man on board so far. He is R. B. Carr, apprentice seaman."

Roll will be swelled to sixty and possibly will exceed this figure. Of the missing it is probable that a number will turn up today and it is believed that the bay also will give up several dead.

Of these injured it is estimated by Dr. M. H. Foster of the United States Marine service, in charge of the injured, that at least ten will die within the next day or two.

SEARCHING FOR DEAD.

Every effort aboard the Bennington this morning is bent toward reaching the dead bodies beneath the steel bulkheads in the closed and flooded compartments. A fire engine from the local fire department will be utilized to pump out the water, which during the evening and morning periods of high tide rose still higher in the engine and boiler rooms.

Out of the confusion that followed the disaster and the work of rescue come thrilling stories of heroism and self-sacrifice.

BRavery OF CREW.

The bravery of the crew was commented on by all who had occasion to witness the scenes. Men who were themselves injured and scalded, worked to aid those who were worse off than themselves, and all the special instances of heroism of the disaster will probably never be fully written. The self-sacrificing efforts on the part of the physicians and the scores of nurses were also commented on with praise for all. Everyone who could be made useful at the hospitals were put at work and those who could not were asked to return and relieve those who were accepted.

THE CAUSE.

Fireman E. G. Hopp makes the first statement as to the cause of the accident. He says that shortly before the explosion one of the boilers was found to be leaking badly, and the boilermaker was sent for to repair the damage. Before the latter came the explosion took place. Hopp saw men all about him killed outright and he himself was stunned for a moment.

The dead will be given a military burial Sunday afternoon at the cemetery reservation at Point Loma. Services will be held at 2 o'clock on the Point and launches will convey across the bay the living officers and men able to attend.

SCENES AT HOSPITALS.

Scenes at the hospitals today were

LIVELY FIRE AT NOON

Factory and Warehouse
on Fourth Street
Destroyed.

A fire on Fourth street, between Broadway and Washington streets, today, destroyed the shop and warehouse of the Wakefield Manufacturing Company, which has been making a specialty of mattresses and wire beds, and obliterated the abiding place of several families, and did more or less damage to several others.

It is estimated that the property destroyed was valued at about $10,000. The amount of insurance cannot be estimated, owing to the absence of the parties interested.

For a time it looked as if the fire would sweep over the southern section of the city before it would be placed under control. So general was this belief that thousands flocked to the scene who otherwise would not have been taken away from their business.

THE ALARMS.

Before the alarms were sounded—and three of them startled the business district—a cloud of dense, black smoke swept over the Courthouse. The next instant the huge structure was enveloped in a sable veil, the color of which reminded people who have been in the old districts of the fires which have there destroyed thousands of barrels of the valued product of the wells.

LOOKED LIKE BIG FIRE.

It was generally supposed by people in the northern part of the business district that the gas works at the corner of Washington and First streets, were in flames, and that the destruction of a number of the frame factories to the north of that institution would be involved in common ruin.

STRONG BREEZE.

This fear was intensified by the fact that a strong breeze, at the time, was prevailing from the southwest, a fact which to many seemed to threaten the entire business district, because large flaming sparks were wafted on the breeze as far north as Fourteenth street.

The Courthouse square and the fire department, however, stood the city in good stead, and to the fire workers under Chief Ball, commendation was general among the spectators.

Fire lines were also excellently maintained by the police force, under Chief Hodgkins, who had under him Captain Wilson, Detectives Holland, Kite and Lynch, and Officers Hodgkins, Brennan, McCarthy, Sill, McCready and Brown.

START OF FIRE.

The fire broke out in the shabby department of the Wakefield Manufacturing Company, 461½-463 Fourth street, the material which burns like tinder, and which was responsible for the dense inky clouds which enveloped the southern part of the city.

It was discovered by a couple of boys who work in the place, and who rushed into the office of the concern and informed G. W. Reeves, the bookkeeper, of their discovery. Reeves ran toward the corner of Washington and Fourth streets to "send in an alarm," but found that John Cunningham, an employee of the Episcopal Mills, at that section, had already sent in the news from box 134.

Almost simultaneously, Officer Hodgkins turned in an alarm from box 132 at the corner of Third and Washington streets.

The fire department responded promptly, and when Chief Ball reached the scene, he sent in a "third alarm," which brought on the ground engines Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, Hook and Ladder Companies Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and Chemical Companies Nos. 1 and 2. The last mentioned apparatus, however, could render no service, because the flames were at the time threatening to eat up everything in sight.

Lines of hose were stretched and the names were fought on all sides, those in the warehouse of the Wakefield

DALTON'S WORK IS COMPLETED

Assessment of the Oakland Transit Company and the Key Route Raised $2,225,000.

Rolls of the County Increased $6,763,700

Excellent Showing Made by Assessor Henry Dalton.

The final assessment of Alameda county was finished by Assessor Henry P. Dalton this afternoon and the rolls turned over to County Clerk Cook ready for the Board of Supervisors to begin the work of equalization Monday morning.

The big corporations, escaped with little or no increase in the valuations placed upon their properties with the exceptions of the Key Route Ferry system and the Oakland Traction Consolidated.

While the assessment of these properties last year were a little less than $3,000,000 this year they are over $5,000,000, the net increase being in the neighborhood of $2,225,000.

In regard to this increase Assessor Dalton said today:

"The property of the Key Route Ferry system has been greatly improved in value during the past year and naturally it is worth a great deal more than it was when we assessed it last year. To a certain extent this can also be said of the Oakland Traction Company, and I think that these two roads can easily stand the assessment placed upon them. As to the other corporations I have let their values stand as they were last year with the exception of a general increase that may come to them."

"The Realty Syndicate, for instance, probably has an increase in its valuation and yet most of its properties are assessed for what it was last year. Where property, however, has increased in value, its property has been raised along with all of the rest. It has property all over the city and whether it has as much standing in its name now as it did last year I cannot say, and am also unable to state whether it is assessed at more or less."

"In regard to the Southern Pacific Company, an opinion has just been rendered by the Attorney General in which he holds that the branch lines of the railway running into this county are a part of the main system and must be assessed by the State Board. This being the case the Seventh street local line, the Berkeley and Alameda lines, which I have always assessed heretofore, I have not touched this year."

"The Southern Pacific ferry boats I assessed for personal property, and are assessed the same as they were last year. The assessment of the franchisees of these boats is now before the Supreme Court, and I have taken the same action in leaving it off as Assessor Dodge has in San Francisco. It would be of little use to keep on assessing the franchise if it is illegal, so we are waiting to see what the result of the court's deliberations on this matter will be."

"The properties of the Contra Costa and Spring Valley Water Companies are the same as last year, with the exception of some general increase of its personal property, which is inconsiderable."

"The property of the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company is about the same, along with its franchise."

"There is a good healthy military roll this year, and we are returning to the Adjutant General the names of 15,838 citizens of Alameda County between the ages of 18 and 45 who are liable to military duty in case of a war."

The total valuation of Alameda county as footed up by the Assessor amounts to $112,022,700.

Last year the total valuation was $104,249,403, making an increase over last year of $7,773,297.

The amount of the University mortgage this year amounts to $97,575, and increase over last year of nearly $100,000. All of this amount escapes taxation and would have to be added to the total value of the county to get the exact amount of wealth the county contains.

The valuation of the various cities in the county are, as follows:

Alameda, $11,612,525; Berkeley, $15,798,275; Oakland, $53,909,275; Emeryville, $1,170,775; Pleasanton, $314,125; Livermore, $589,450; Hayward, $858,550; San Leandro, $1,020,525.

TOWNSHIPS.

Brooklyn, $6,764,900; Eden, $4,220,325; Murray, $1,764,175; Pleasanton, $3,450,125; Oakland, $1,169,250; Washington, $5,825,025.

BODY OF ADMIRAL JONES ARRIVES IN PORT.

Imposing Scene as the Ships Come Into the Harbor---Remains to Go to Annapolis.

NORFOLK, Virginia, July 22.—The body of Admiral John Paul Jones, recently found in Paris as the result of a search inspired and conducted by General Horace Porter, former United States Ambassador to France, passed Virginia Capes today on the United States Cruiser Brooklyn under Rear-Admiral Sigbee, the Brooklyn having as consort the cruisers Galveston, Tacoma and Chattanooga.

MEET THE FLEET.

Off this coast the fleet was met by the battleship squadron of the North Atlantic fleet in two divisions, the first being under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, and the second commanded by Rear Admiral Davis. The three squadrons approached the Capes together, the vessels under command of Rear Admiral Evans leading and the Davis and Sigbee squadrons closely following.

Upon the vessels reaching Cape Henry, Admiral Evans' squadron, composed of the battleship Maine as flagship, the battleships Missouri, Kentucky and Kearsarge, passed into Lower Chesapeake Bay at 7:10 o'clock.

THE SQUADRON.

Then came the Sigbee squadron in the following order: The flagship Brooklyn, the cruisers Galveston, Tacoma and Chattanooga. Following these were the vessels of Rear Admiral Davis' squadron which entered the lower bay in this order: The battleships Alabama, Illinois, Massachusetts and Iowa. The exact hour of the passing in of the Sigbee vessels was 7:20 and the Davis squadron proceeded immediately afterward.

In CHESAPEAKE BAY. The Sigbee and Davis squadrons proceeded immediately up Chesapeake Bay bringing the body of Admiral Jones toward Annapolis, Maryland, its last resting place, while the vessels of Admiral Evans' squadron said farewell to the other fleets and proceeded to Old Point Comfort, Virginia, en route to Lambert's Point where the battleships will coal.

TO ANNAPOOLIS.

It is understood here that in Chesapeake Bay the body of Admiral Jones will be transferred from the cruiser Brooklyn and placed aboard one of the upper bay lighthouse tenders, which will bear it to Annapolis for final interment on the United States naval reservation at that place. Vessels of the Sigbee and Davis squadrons will continue to Annapolis to take part in the ceremonies incident to the reception of the body. The ceremonies will also be participated in by the French cruiser Jurien de La Graviere, which was detached from the French North Atlantic squadron and sent to Chesapeake Bay to represent France at the ceremonies attending the arrival and interment of Admiral Jones' body at Annapolis.

FRENCH CRUISER.

The French cruiser, which has been at Baltimore since her arrival in these waters, will leave that city today to join the American vessels bound toward Annapolis.

After the ceremonies at Annapolis the French vessel will return to Martinique, where a new list of officers and men will be found awaiting her from France, relieving the present officers and crew, who will then return home.

WASHINGTON NOTIFIED.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The Navy Department today received a telegram from Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the North Atlantic fleet, announcing the arrival this morning of his squadron of battleships and Rear Admiral Sigbee with his fleet of cruisers, bearing the body of John Paul Jones, in Hampton Roads. The first division of the battleships anchored in Hampton Roads. The second division and Rear Admiral Sigbee's division sailed for Annapolis. This fleet will anchor below Annapolis tonight and appear off Annapolis tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

SPANISH PRIEST.

"There are at noon today 24 patients in Agnew Sanitarium, ten at St. Joseph's, nine at Army Barracks and one at a private residence, making 34 in all, under treatment. Of these it is probable that at least ten and possibly twelve, will die of their injuries within the next day or two."

Conspicuous among those at Agnew today was the venerable Spanish priest, Father A. D. Ubach, who has spent all the years of his long life ministering to the spiritual wants of St. Joseph's parish, the man who performed the ceremony at the marriage of Helen Hunt Jackson's famous heroine, Ramona. The priest went from cot to cot, speaking words of comfort and cheer to the suffering sailors.

HE IS A HERO.

Dr. Gochbauer, in charge of Agnew Sanitarium, is one of the heroes of the disaster. It was he who looked after every detail of caring for the injured during the hours immediately following the explosion. In twenty minutes after the news of the catastrophe reached the hospital he had arranged for fifty additional beds in the institution, secured several thousand yards of bandages, medicines, etc., and summoned every trained nurse to be had. Seventy-three men were taken to Agnew Sanitarium. Of these 23 died and 18 were subsequently removed to other institutions. Dr. Gochbauer said today:

"We have had a trying time but have handled all the poor fellows without confusion and delay. The regular staff of the hospital, as well as the physicians of San Diego in general, have performed wonders in the amount of work they have handled yesterday, last night and today."

BRAVE MEN.

"I want to say that I never saw a braver, more patient and uncomplaining lot of men than these poor fellows of the Bennington. Hardly a cry escaped them while their terrible injuries were being dressed."

Little or no progress in the work of rescue was made aboard the Bennington this forenoon. The water has risen still higher in the hold and the vessel is settling in the soft bottom where she beached and it was impossible to reach the bodies known to be hidden beneath the decks. It is believed at least fifteen bodies will be found in the vessel.

FIRE TUG.

A fire tug with a powerful pump will be used to empty the hold of water and give the workers an opportunity to reach the dead.

TO MAKE ARRESTS.

Commander Young at noon today requested Chief of Police Thomas to arrest all members of the Bennington's crew who may be ashore without a pass. In this way Commander Young hopes to arrive at a correct estimate of the missing as well as to prevent desertions.

LIVELY FIRE AT NOON.

Manufacturing Company for a time compelling the hose men to direct their streams from a distance in the street. The company in question occupied two stores in which there was about $2,500 worth of beds, lounges and mattresses stored, and the blaze and smoke from these were intense and almost suffocating, but were finally overcome by the fire-fighters.

LEFT HER DIAMONDS.
The floors up stairs were occupied as rooming quarters by Alice Hamilton, who resides in the eastern part of the city. All the furniture in these rooms was destroyed and some of the roomers who had not arisen at the time of the breaking-out of the fire, lost their wearing apparel, and were compelled to make a hasty retreat from the burning structure.

One of the inmates, named Little Belle, fled with such precipitation as to leave some diamonds on her dressing case. These, however, were afterwards saved by Detectives Kyrle and Quigley from the midst of a mass of debris after the flames had been extinguished.

Bookkeeper Reeves said the stock destroyed was worth $2,500. He could not tell what was the value of the shop proper, and did not know what amount of insurance there was on the concern.

EDWARD W. NASH DIES.
OMAHA, July 22.—Edward W. Nash, president of the Smelting & Refining Company, died at his home in this city today from the effects of a stroke of paralysis sustained Monday night, May 22nd.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Will Discharge Vast Amount to Widen This Waterway.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 22.—Hundreds of witnesses came here today to witness with the people of this city and vicinity the culmination of an engineering project which has been under way for the last three years and which has attracted the attention of experts both in this country and abroad.

It was the removal of Hendersons Point, a ledge some three acres in extent, from Piscataqua River bed by explosions amounting to about 400 charges of dynamite, aggregating at least 10 tons, in the rock beneath the water.

The hour scheduled for the discharge of the dynamite was 4 p. m. It was arranged that by the removing of a switch at a safe distance from the ledge sparks should be sent into contact with the dynamite. The explosion of the result was expected to shatter the mass of rock and thereby to widen and deepen the waterway leading to the big dry dock recently completed by the Government at the United States Navy Yard on Seavoy's Island.

The contract price of the undertaking was $45,000. The expense was covered by a Government appropriation in connection with the bill authorizing the construction of the big dry dock at the Navy Yard. It is understood that the charge of 45 tons of dynamite is the largest ever exploded at one time in this country.

Hendersons Point is a solid ledge of basalt, 600 feet wide at the base and jutting out into the river about 300 feet. Around it whirl innumerable currents and a tide wave, the height of the break of the swift waters have worn a channel 30 feet deep in the rock around the end of the point, but the force of the cross currents has been so great that for years it has been a menace, especially to the development of the navy yard. With the establishment of the great dry dock its removal was imperative.

Its destruction will give an approach 1000 feet wide and of a depth of water of 20 feet to the great dry dock world to Portsmouth and the navy yard.

ALAMEDA COUNTY GETS MORE TIME

An extra week has been given the Board of Supervisors to the Board of Equalization by the State Board who after denying an extension, thought better of the matter, and this morning County Clerk John P. Cook received the following communication:

"Sacramento, July 21, 1905.—To the County Clerk of Alameda County: 'T. M. Eby, Clerk of the State Board of Equalization, to hereby certify that the following is a true copy of an order made by said Board and entered upon its minutes:'

"Whereas, On the 17th day of July, 1905, there was duly given and entered upon the minutes herein, an order granting the 25th day of July, 1905, in which to equalize the property of this county; and whereas, Said County Board of Equalization has applied for a further extension of time beyond the said 25th day of July, 1905;

"Therefore, it is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of said Alameda County to equalize the property in said county for 1905, be and the same is extended to Saturday, August 5th, 1905."

"Respectfully,"
"Clerk State Board of Equalization."

The need of asking for an extension was necessitated by the fact that the assessment rolls were not completed by the County Assessor and were only turned over to him this afternoon and would only have left the County Board of Equalization one week in which to consider the complaints of the citizens on account of excessive assessments. Under the further leave granted the Board, however, will have two weeks, which it is believed is ample time.

GOLFERS CONTEST.
CHICAGO, July 22.—Chandler Egan put in some good work at the Antwerp Golf Club course today in an effort to carry the Ravinokos cup home with him tonight. W. L. Howland, Jr., who won a place in the finals by a rather surprising defeat of Walter Egan was the only one to prevent him. Chandler Egan has won twice already and three times makes the trophy his.

BOILERS DID NOT EXPLODE?

Chief Engineer of Navy
Gives Opinion on Disaster.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Rear-Admiral C. W. Rae, chief engineer of the navy, says he can only account for the damage done to the Bennington by an explosion of high explosives, and reiterates that there was nothing in the reports to the bureau to show that the boilers were in an unsafe condition. He said today:

"After examining the plans of the Bennington in the light of the dispatches giving an account of the disaster, I cannot conceive how the collapse of a crown sheet could damage the ship to the extent stated, or have blown people overboard from the deck."

"If there were high explosives in the shell room just forward from the pump room, and forward of the fire room and they were exploded by the concussion, that would account for the damage done."

The detailed plans of the boiler room deck of the Bennington show a pump room, a narrow space just forward of the fire room and immediately forward of the pump room, a shell room of which the naval regulations in regard to the boiler inspection are as follows: "Boiler will be thoroughly examined at regular intervals of about three months, other examinations being made as opportunity offers, and as the senior engineer officer may consider necessary. A detailed description of the condition of each boiler at each of these examinations shall be entered in the steam log, and the senior engineer officer's remark book."

WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

Mrs. Kittle Hall, a young married woman 25 years of age, created a sensation yesterday evening at the foot of Broadway by persistently attempting to commit suicide by jumping into the Estuary. She was restrained by her husband, J. C. Desmond, who turned the woman over to Police Constable Cockerton. Even after she was placed under arrest the woman wanted to do away with herself and struggled to free herself from the officer.

She appeared before Police Judge Samuel this morning and stated that she did not know what she was doing. She promised that if she were released she would go home and put suicidal thoughts out of her mind. The court accepted her promise and let her go.

NOT TO FIGHT HALF HOLIDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—In the face of strenuous public opinion, the Bar Association has signified its intention of withdrawing its opposition to the Saturday half-holiday for employees of State and municipal offices. The association has been for some time opposing the half-holiday on the ground of its unconstitutionality.

Notice of the withdrawal of the opposition was contained in a telegram sent to the city by the association this morning. It appears that the fight of the Bar Association was abandoned only because of public opinion and is not in any way an admission of the legality of the Saturday half-holiday.

TOWN TALK.

Whether Mrs. Eleanor Martin may confer titles is discussed by the San Francisco "Town Talk," and the question of why Carr Greenway desired to abdicate his throne is also discussed. There are paragraphs about the Courts in Society; Charles Peters' new taxation for greenhouses; Joall's need as voiced by Edgar Matheson; the political situation; McDougall for Mayor; President Ben Ide Wheeler's latest utterance; the agent the predatory rich; what the writers and artists are doing, etc., etc. There is a story with a San Francisco locale, and all the department stores, music, auto, letters and editorial are all full of entertainment.

CHINESE EXCLUSION RING.
The San Francisco News Letter this week prints an interesting and able editorial concerning the Chinese Exclusion Act. The News Letter was the first paper having the courage to discuss this subject, and has been rewarded by the act of President Roosevelt in demanding fair play. The criticisms of Constance Trevelyan are attracting considerable attention. An article by Thomas H. Wilson on "Politics" is an able essay on political science.

The regular departments of the News Letter are uniformly bright this week, and the stories and special articles are quite interesting.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.
CONSTANTINOPLE, July 22.—The bomb thrown by the man who attempted to assassinate the Sultan yesterday smashed the windows of the pavilion reserved for the diplomatic corps, by which contained, among others, U. Grant Smith, second secretary of the American Legation here, who was accompanied by Captain Sully of the United States Army.

No one was hurt in the pavilion with the exception of a few attendants, who received scratches from flying glass.

INSANE MAN DESTROYS THOUSANDS OF BUSHELS IN RENO COUNTY.

WICHITA, Kan., July 22.—Thousands of bushels of new wheat have been destroyed by a lunatic at large in Reno county, between Buhler and Burton, who passed through the district last night, setting fire to stacks and granaries. The incendiary, whose name is not known, is thought to have been crazed by losses in wheat speculation. A posse has been organized at Buhler to capture the lunatic.

When the body is cleared for action by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks; the brightness of the eyes; the firmness of the flesh and muscles; the buoyancy of the mind. Making Technical Objections Against Being Extradited.

Higgins argued that Collins, swearing to the false affidavit in San Francisco, had committed perjury within the meaning of the common law of Canada and quoted authorities to support his contention. As to the objections of Collins, they were mere technicalities, said Higgins, which were absurd when followed to a logical conclusion, as all matters of procedure could not be identical in California and Canada. For instance, a man may be married by a justice of the peace in California, but not in Canada, and it would be absurd

WITTE IN PARIS.

PARIS, July 22.—M. Witte, the senior Russian peace plenipotentiary, arrived in the man of the hour since his arrival in Paris on his way to the peace conference in the United States. He received a notable reception at the railway station from the assembled officers and members of the diplomatic corps.

The public interest in him is partly due to the power exerted when the Franco-Russian alliance was at its height, which will largely determine the choice of peace or of war. The slightest statement supposed to emanate from him is eagerly perused, and the public searching closely for indications of action during the peace conference.

The Southern Pacific expedition to the Philippines has kept a close secret but finding that the departure of Walla and Holabird on the steamer Korea had become known, it was admitted at the hotel that the two men were aware that their mission was connected with the big Philippine railroad project.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC INTERESTS

Yes, Mr. Wallace and myself are going to the Philippines for the railroad line," admitted Holabird, when questioned about his mission at the P. & H. Hotel yesterday. "We sail on the steamer Korea and will go to the southern part of the island." He said he

They were in Vancouver for several days before they sought a license. Immediately after they had it they went to a saloon to open a bottle of champagne. The man, wearing a black coat and a chain with which to honor the occasion, they soon found themselves short of funds. The man, having a blank check, drew a check for $30.00. Confused, Madish, drew a check for $30, signed "Modish" - Finkman, the girl's maiden name. The saloonkeeper cashed the check to the extent of $10 to pay for the wine, then wired and found the check was bad. Wilson is in jail and his wife has wired for money to bail him out.

FIRE RAGING IN OLD TOWN OF AUBURN.

Several Buildings Burned and Post-office and Stores on Main Street Threatened.

AUBURN, Cal., July 22.—The old town of Auburn is being visited by a disastrous fire, which started in the back room of J. C. Safford's large furniture store in Snowden's Opera House building, and quickly extended to A. J. Hancock's store adjoining.

The flames soon broke through the roof and drove the firemen out. Crosby's livery stable was next attacked, and succumbed, and the American Hotel is now threatened.

At present it looks as if the whole of Chinatown would go, and probably the postoffice and several stores on Main street.

UNDER CONTROL.

The American Hotel was burned, but the fire stopped there, and is now under control. The total loss is about $75,000, with insurance of $50,000.

Too Late for Classification

PORTLAND, Or., July 22.—The re-trial of Williamson, Van Gerner and Biggs on a charge of subornation of perjury was begun today in the Federal Court. The hearing of evidence will begin Monday morning, to which time adjournment was had at noon. District Attorney Heneys' opening statement to the jury did not differ materially from his statement at the opening of the first trial. For the defense, Attorney Bennett charged that the political character of the case was conducting the prosecution and were responsible for the attacks on him. He said Williamson had been hounded and harassed and driven from one trial into another without time to draw his breath.

BY BETTY MARTIN

The Springfield Republican is rejoicing over the fact that Miss May Sutton won in the International Tennis Contest.

Not only that, but "Miss Sutton has given the English a new idea of the American girl, and different from that advertised by the smartly dressed but often not over robust young American traveler."

There is yet another kind of American girl it might be well to acquaint English folk with, and she grows in California.

The kind of girl I refer to wasn't reared on the tennis court, although usually able to play a fair game, nor is she a champion of anything in particular.

The type of girl produced in California is well-educated, whole-souled, refined, cultured and ready for any emergency.

She is able to conduct a charity bazaar in San Francisco; knows enough about music to appreciate grand opera; thinks that men are a good one-half of the world, and is equal to the task of picking cherries in the orchards at Haywards, canning apricots, picking hops in the fields of Pleasanton, or packing grapes in the Valley of the Sacramento.

She is a good, honest, patriotic American citizen, proud to own California as the land of her birth.

This leads up to an interesting discussion being waged in England about American girls and the English nobility. They are raising a great row over on the other side of the water since a certain statistician put forth a few startling figures in regard to international marriages.

He finds the "failure of motherhood among American heiresses who have married titled Englishmen most marked, while the influence of colonial women on English society is not only more wholesome, but likely to be more permanent."

In this writer's opinion colonial influence in England is masculine, vigorous and wholesome; American influence is feminine, frivolous and feeble.

In addition, he declares there is not a single distinguished peer's son with an American mother, whereas there are several with Colonial mothers.

Here are the figures:
Colonials of title, 23 peeresses, 63 children.
Twenty-two wives of baronets, 42 children.
Twenty-two with courtesy titles, 26 children.
Colonials of title, 23 peeresses, 63 children.
Thirty wives of baronets, 102 children.
Forty-two with courtesy titles, 101 children.

"In the face of these figures," the writer concludes, "the contention that by means of American brides fresh vigor may be imported into the British aristocracy is merely ridiculous."

This statistician failed to take cognizance of the fact that through some unhappy chance American heiresses have as a rule married the most degenerate and dissipated specimens of titled Englishmen. Judging by their record, these men must be physically incapable of producing offspring of any sort whatever, not to mention distinguished progeny. Perhaps it is just as well to allow this pernicious class to disappear without calling attention to the demand of nature for a survival of the fittest.

According to a statement published by a North Carolina school teacher, there is a man who is paid a larger salary to train puppies to hunt quail than any school teacher in the section is receiving for educating children. In Indiana, according to this same authority, out of the 15,000 school teachers of the State, 12,000 are receiving less than $500.00 a year. Which latter is pretty bad, when one takes into consideration the sage reflection ventured by a critic, that the "general employment of the teacher 'in the good old summertime' is to spend what has been laid away during the rest of the year."

The same critic goes on to state that the "reason the income of the school teacher is so low is found in the average law of preparation. The young woman who cannot think of anything else to do—and who is fitted to do nothing else—makes a bee line for the school house."

How about high school teachers? At the last graduating exercises a little over a month ago, in Oakland, Mr. James B. Bond made complaint regarding the low wages paid to his assistants, and declared that the school had recently lost two of its very best instructors by reason of the small salary they had been receiving. If this statement be true, something must be "rotten in Denmark." The charge of inadequate preparation for their profession cannot be laid at the door of Oakland High School teachers.

From Paris comes the statement that age no longer cuts much of a figure in woman's dress. The dominant note is that of youth. Women who a few years back would have been relegated to themselves sober grays and rusty browns, now wear light dresses formerly supposed to belong by right of youth to unmarried girls or young matrons.

Lingerie suits are of the hour, and worn indiscriminately.

This Parisian gossip brings to mind a little incident which happened in the millinery department of one of our local department stores.

Enter mother, daughter.
Mother, (to head saleswoman): "I would like to be shown your hats, please. Something suitable for this young lady."

Milliner gives a quick, comprehensive glance at daughter. "Certainly." She makes her way to the show cases and returns shortly, laden with babyish-looking round hats, such as usually frame the faces of four-year-olds. Mother eyes the array dubiously. "Aren't they just-a-trifle-young looking?" Asks she, hesitatingly.

"Oh, no—no, indeed!" replied the milliner. All the girls wear them. Even old girls." By way of illustrating she placed the hat upon her own head, remarking as she did so, "Of course, young girls look better in them, still, all girls wear them."

The argument was convincing and daughter bought the hat.

Later on, the mother wanted something up-to-date in the line of millinery. Once more, in company with her daughter, she sought the store, and immediately proceeded to try on a hat similar in shape to the one purchased on the former visit.

The daughter turned a look of horror upon her parent while her nose took on an acute angle.
"Horrid!" with decision.
"Why?" In a pained tone.

"It looks silly!"

"But," protesting, "Miss Dash said that 'old girls' wore this shape. I'm sure she's older than I."

"Humph! 'old girls' don't include married women!" declared the young oracle.

Unless I'm mistaken a big crowd will turn out tonight to hear Aunt Susan and Miss Annie Shaw talk about woman's rights at the Unitarian Church.

Susan B. Anthony has a record which extends the world over, and she's bound to die fighting for the cause with which she has ever been associated.

Politicians and others cannot fail to remember a few years back when the suffragists made California the chief point of attack. The field was regarded as won, when, low! Sacramento proved the Waterloo. The tale of defeat is an interesting one, and disclosed of a few facts as to the machinery brought into operation at the time might not read very prettily, nor reflect credit upon some of those in active participation of affairs at that time.

Though defeated, the suffragists did not haul down their flag, as tonight will bear witness.

Miss Anna Shaw is an ordained minister, besides being a woman who always has two pockets, which she makes a point of calling attention to. This alone entitles her to distinction, and consideration. A woman with brains enough to evolve two pockets out of an ordinary dress skirt is surely above her fellows.

Pockets aside, Miss Shaw is a speaker worth listening to. She has ideas. BETTY MARTIN.

OAKLANDER'S VIVID DESCRIPTION OF LIFE IN THE HEART OF THE GHETTO

BY HENRY KIRK.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Last Sunday night I went to a concert at the University Settlement in Livingston street in the heart of the Ghetto. When I got there the rooms were crowded. At a grand piano a beautiful woman in a gray gown was playing the "Moonlight Sonata." It was rather distracting, as the day had been warm and the night, and I knew I would suffocate in that jammed place before it was half over. But I don't think that children of the Ghetto have any idea of discomfort, certainly not when there is anything educating going on. I don't know just what they could think of the music, but anyway, they sat there without moving a muscle, without missing a note. In front of me was a young woman in a very heavy blue silk. She wore an immense white hat and had near pearls in her ears. She had a lot of other jewelry scattered about and some of the most remarkable hat pins I ever saw. One of them had a spangled butterfly on a wire, and bobbed up and down so continually I was almost hypnotized. The girl must have been frightfully warm, but she made no sign of it. What she thought of the music I don't think anyone could say. She had absolutely no expression, nevertheless, the only life about her the bobbing butterfly on her hatpin. But she kept her eyes on a dead line with the piano and never moved them for an instant. The next performer was a young woman in very artistic attire, various skirt, blousy waist effect, single string of coral, scattered hair. She recited in one of the most haunting voices I ever heard an Indian folk tale. It was something about a woman wondering what she would do if her dead husband came back. One line went on about "no drink for the dead but tears," which I thought rather affecting. I don't know how the others took it, but after a while when the piece became dramatic, a boy behind me laughed. He was the only one who did, the others sat motionless. Then came a very little girl with a cornet, and the house awoke. I forget what she played, something very simple, execution extremely so, but the applause was immense. A little boy next to me said, "It is so beautiful we cannot forget it!" After this was an illustrated talk upon negro melodies, a violin solo, something of Wladislawski, played remarkably well by a boy of sixteen; another piano piece by the girl in the gray gown, and a talk by the superintendent of the house. I wonder just what those boys and girls did think of it all. Beethoven, Wladislawski, the negro music that I know they didn't grasp, purely ethical; the Indian talk when the boy laughed? A splendid study of psychology. And I forgot to say that through it all, in just the open windows, up from the street came the most awful din, hundreds of children on the pavement shouting and singing, laughing and crying. It never ceased for an instant, went on without interruption from the first note of the piano to the last word of the superintendent. It seemed to bother no one about me, certainly not the girl with the bobbing butterfly, but it must have been annoying to the performers.

The University Settlement is the largest and most important on the east side. It occupies a large six-story building and is splendidly equipped with everything advancing for the matter as well as the mind of the youthful ghettos. It's a remarkable thing when you think about it, one generation, oppressed Russians, Polish Jews, the succeeding free-born American citizen, and beside all this, to say nothing of Presidential possibilities, taken into the hearts and brains of cultured, well-bred American men and women. There is mighty little room to the settlement worker for much of his labor. The children are grateful and affectionate. They crowd about you in the street, shout out your name a block away. They are boisterous in their show of affection, almost tear your clothes off, but they are affectionate and grateful when they are children, but as they grow older they lose much of this and become almost arrogant. I think most of this is due to the rare prejudice of the preceding generation. The Ghetto children, I believe, become suspicious as they reach their maturity, either from their own ideas or those of their parents. They will not keep away from the settlements, for they have an insane desire for knowledge and never lose an opportunity of getting it. And these Ghetto children are all bright. I don't think I ever saw a really dull child among them in all my experience, and I had four clubs of it for three months. But anyway, some of them think we are trying to convert them.

A prominent rabbi denounced the work as proselytizing, and warned his people against it. This, of course, is all rot. The genuine settlement worker is purely unselfish in his religious ideas, as well as in himself. Even the faddist is ready for the moment. But it's all a martyrdom. I don't know how many people have told me they never expect to see much return for their labors. It's all a sort of heaven, to act sometime. This is quite nice, but I think the boards of sanitation and of education would do everything necessary for the east side, shrugging that will work over might. Then there's the Tenement Commission and a lot of other things. New York is one of the best places for the poor I ever heard of—free baths, recreation piers, schools and libraries everywhere. If these weren't do the deed, nothing else will.

I remember our little college settlement in West Berkeley, a really effective place. I used to go down and teach the kids to make baskets. I didn't know anything about baskets, but managed to get along—sort of a moral influence. This is after all the great aim of the settlement, but it seems too bad people have to sacrifice so much to make it.

I lived over two months in a "moral center," within a breath of the Bowery, and studied the life about me night and day, so I am not now merely guessing. Our house was very artistically gotten up—old brasses and plaster casts, green wall paper and black woodwork, polished floors and so on. The main rooms were given over to the clubs, meetings being held continually from after school until eleven at night, parliamentary rules rigidly adhered to and the most solemn forms carefully gone through. All this amused me greatly, none but the hugest words used and the most stilted diction. I suppose this is all training. My favorite class was called "The Boys' Pleasure Club." They wanted to have it "Kirk Junior," but a symptom of modesty on my part prevented it.

Then there was a "Seekers for Knowledge." I took the Seekers one day on an outing to Fort Glory, a minature Coney Island, above the Harlem River. We had our luncheon in the fields, and as some of the boys had brought some doubtful food, the question of Kosher came up. I assured them as far as I could, but managed to say something that made one of the boys look up, "O, Mr. Kirk," he said, "aren't you a Jew?" I had to admit I wasn't. "O," he sighed, "I am so sorry." And he did it so nicely and with such real regret, I was quite sorry myself. One night I gave the boys an illustrated talk on California. Then we had regular entertainments at certain intervals. Our house was unique in a way, as we had a number of resident boys taken from the probate court. They were gotten work and looked after generally. This I thought infinitely more practical than the mere club, gymnasium, mart, idea. The boys paid their own way and were helpful, as they helped themselves. Each Monday night a supper was served, a donation from some one "up town." No doubt the donor often remarked casually at an afternoon somewhere about the supper she sent down to the settlement, and so on. I'm sure the supper at times needed mention—it often wasn't large enough to speak for itself. But others were more thoughtful, and I saw some mighty generous treats, luncheons and dinners, theater and circus parties from more than one wealthy young woman who lived either in or "just off" the Avenue, a long way from the Bowery and the crowded streets of the Ghetto. HENRY KIRK.

IS WOMAN'S HEAD GROWING LARGER?

A certain artist who, being wiser than his kind, has concealed his name, says that he can no longer get suitable models for the female figure because all the women of today have heads too large for their bodies. He lives in hopes that the increasing popularity of athletics will develop the bodies (ill the old-fashioned proportions admired by the sculptors of Greece shall be restored. He believes that the over-development of the feminine head is due to modern culture. He is a brave man, indeed, who dares to accuse the women of today of having, by reason of their learning, developed too far in this respect. But his view of the entire matter is askew. The Greek woman's head was too small; that is the real state of the case. She was as a type ignorant, unlearned, untrained in the use of the brain. One small head could easily carry all she knew, with room to spare.

What this artist and all the rest of his kind should do is to remodel their ideas about models. Let them stop worrying about the Greeks and carve in immortal marble the genius of American womanhood. There is nothing radically the matter with the woman of today.

"Feminine skulls are larger," says Mrs. Lillie Derreux Blake, "because there must be more room for the improved size of the brains and the symmetry of the form is increased by this development. How absurd would be the small cranium of the ancient Greek soldier on the massive form of a Scott or a Sherman, or the low forehead of the antique woman on a Stanton."

Mr. Fuller, the principal of the Students' Art League, in giving his opinion, said:

"That Phidias, Michael Angelo and the other great sculptors of Greece and Rome sacrificed the size of the head, to accentuate the proportions of the body I do not believe, or that women's heads were any smaller in the days the Venus de Medici was modelled, but I do think the sculptor intentionally made the head smaller than the beautiful curves and proportions of the body might stand out in greater contrast,

"The correct measurements today are as follows: At birth the head measures about four times into the height, at the age of five years six times into the height, in an adult about seven times and a half times into the height. In some cases a woman's head is larger than a man's. In modern sculpture the head, you will notice, is much larger and more in proportion to the entire body."

Mr. George H. Story, curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in the department of paintings, was considerably interested in the discussion as to the size of women's heads.

"The largest heads," he said, "do not necessarily denote the greatest amount of brains, either in man or woman. It is the quality, not the quantity, which counts. We often see enormous heads bending over a tailor's bench and small heads pleading before the Supreme Court Judges."

In the time of Phidias Phryne was the model for all his Aphrodites and Atheneses. She was considered the most beautiful woman in Greece. We do not learn that she was gifted with any great amount of intelligence, that her brain was any larger or weightier than the average Grecian woman of her day, but we do read much of her wonderful beauty and perfection of form, and can see for ourselves in the statues to be found in all art galleries, original and copies of the great master's work.

"The Venus de Medici with her small head, is wholly unemotional. She is phenologically perfect, but she is just what she is represented as being, a woman of marble. The enlargement of the modern woman's head I should not consider a sign of greater intelligence, for this reason: During the Renaissance period, following the early Roman and Greek, the women were magnificently educated and very intelligent, yet we see no increase in the size of the head. A woman's brains, that is a normal woman, are three ounces lighter than a man's. In the case of the man the large head was accompanied by a large body, but I delectate my first statement that it is quality and not quantity that counts."

CONCERNING WOMEN

A San Francisco woman who founded an institution for destitute women in 1868 has lost her money and entered the home.

One of the novelties of the season has been shirts for women just like those worn by the men. They are nothing like the shirt waists or the blouses that have delighted women for years, but the facsimile of the garments worn by the sterner sex, without any trimmings, gatherings or changing.

It is a wonder that so few women avail themselves of the business methods pursued by the men of the family. The card catalogue, for instance, is peculiarly adapted to lighten the cares of the housekeeper, and has possibilities almost untold. This helpful idea was adopted by one practical housewife, after having spent two good and valuable hours in looking over fifteen cookbooks for a vaguely remembered recipe.

A royal lady, the queen of Roumania, preaches the "simple life." She writes: "If only people could content themselves with the fruits of the earth, with bread and vegetables for their daily fare, how easily might men provide for their families! If only women did not require such costly toilets they would never be under the necessity of working for their own living. For the present state of things men are perhaps in the first instance to blame, since they have encouraged women to become so frivolous and exacting; but the great fault lies with the women themselves, whose extravagances make them demand such sacrifices from their husbands."

Only one American woman at a time can receive the appointment to the woman's table for research work at the biological station in Naples, and the present incumbent is Dr. Eugenia Metzger of Kansas City. The selection is considered an unusual honor, but Dr. Metzger is well qualified for the position, having enjoyed exceptional educational advantages both in this country and abroad. While a practicing physician Dr. Metzger carried on original work along the special lines she is most interested in, and has had several degrees conferred on her by leading universities. It is said Naples possesses the finest aquarium in the world, its geographical location giving it access to the strange creatures teeming in the waters of the Mediterranean.

In the dim, distant day of the last generation it was considered a shocking thing for a woman to know how to whistle, and the venturesome female who puckered up her lips and surreptitiously let out a shrill imitation of her brother's legitimate mode of expressing himself, was sure to be eyed with stern disapproval, and be severely admonished that "whistling girls and crowing hens always come to some bad end"—a couplet which our foremothers fondly supposed to be poetry, but which, with our better knowledge of the requirements of rhyme, we run right in like the commonplace prose that it is. All this has changed. A girl can whistle from the housetop now, without it occurring to anybody to prophesy that she will end her days on the gallows. Does not at least one celebrated young woman earn her living by whistling in the parlors of the rich and great?

An old lady who calmly produced a pair of stockings and a darning egg the other day in a specialist's office and worked while waiting her turn provoked much covert amusement. This is only another proof of the conventional stupidity of human nature and its acceptance of silly and unalterable laws for conduct in the most trivial affairs of life. The woman in question was really an economist of a valuable order and illustrates what might change the character of society and particularly the feminine portion of it. Who does not realize the enormous amount of time wasted in the little "waits" of life, in railway stations, at dentist's offices, in the street cars, between the acts in the theater. Most of these are filled with cheap candy or light gossip, though one feels distinctly unsocial on such occasions. How much better if we could fill them to our betterment, either in a practical or an intellectual sense. A book can always be carried and it is wonderful how much reading the busiest woman can do by watching her opportunities. It is the "little drops of water" that make the mighty ocean and no time should ever be too brief for employment.

The Chauvinistic Russian lady who went to the war disguised as a man in order to be taken prisoner by the Japanese and so be able to nurse her countrymen may have thought she was performing a feat entirely original and fresh. If so she was only partly right. She but serves to remind us irresistibly of the way in which women insisted in following their husbands and lovers and brothers in the crusades. Such was the zeal of the women at that time that they burned the sign of the cross upon themselves and their babies, coloring it with red dye—an early form of tattoo—while others, evading the decree which forbade any woman, excepting washerwomen, and those not under 50 years of age, to follow the army as women, dressed themselves as men, and carrying spur and sword, went through the campaign as soldiers. One whole troop of women was headed by a lady who wore gilt spurs and was called the gilded-footed lady. This was in the twelfth century. And yet in 1905 there still is occasional reference to the new woman.

The navy has been less honored than the army in having women officers, the only two being the Dowager Empress Olga of Russia and Queen Olga of Greece, both of whom are in the Russian navy by the courtesy of the late czar. The Empress Dowager holds the rank of admiral in the Russian navy and the Queen of Greece is also an admiral in the Russian Mediterranean squadron. Indeed, Queen Olga is an enthusiastic lover of the sea. She spends much of her time on board the royal yacht Amphitrite, and has passed the examination necessary to qualify her for a sailing master's certificate.

THIS SMALLEST BABY IS ALWAYS HUNGRY

NEW YORK, July 22.—Screwing up his little face for a cry and stretching out his arms as if to add to his ten inches of stature, the smallest baby that ever lived in St. Louis, less than two pounds in weight, tried to show he was ready for his morning meal.

To call John Paul Jones Dill "little" as ordinarily applied to babies is shooting wide of the mark. A ten, or even a five pound baby would look like a whale alongside a sardine if placed on the bed beside the little sofa pillow that does John Paul for a mattress. John Paul could be laid on a foot rule and have an inch to spare at each end. And at that he has grown some since he was born four days ago. That he has lived is almost a miracle and establishes a new minimum in the baby line.

After he had tried in vain to make as much noise by way of a cry as a newborn kitten, the feeding of John Paul began. Every two hours is meal time with him, and he is not yet old enough to take pure milk. First he is given a drink of water. Five drops from a medicine dropper, washes out his little gullet and gets it ready for the milk that is to come.

He is not allowed to drink from a spoon even, and the milk is given him just as is the water, drop by drop. John Paul does not like this way of feeding. It's too slow he thinks, and when the end of the dropper touched his lips, Monday, he closed upon it and drained the last three drops of milk at a gulp.

When the child was born Dr. Herman W. Faber of 3029 South Broadway, told George Dill, the father of the baby, that it could not possibly live. He thought, as it was cold and showed a faint twitching of its limbs beyond a little sign of life.

Dr. Faber determined to try on it a treatment that he had used with success in cases of burns, a fatty gauze which would feed the flesh while it kept the temperature up.

There was no incubator to which the child could be taken and the fat treatment was deemed even better than the metal box, as the child could then be saved from being moved. Olive oil is ordinarily used on the bodies of newborn weaklings, but the physician reasoned that olive oil is a vegetable fat and therefore not fitted for the human body to absorb readily.

Lard was the only animal fat obtainable, and after a roll of gauze had been wrung out in the melted and lukewarm fat, the child was wrapped up in this until only the tip of its little nose stuck out.

Nine-tenths of its time since its birth has been spent in sleep. One minute after it has been washed and dressed and fed it is asleep and not until the two-hour period for feeding has passed does it wake.

George Dill, the father, is a poor man, and has four other children, but no crowned head whose child meant the saving of an empire from a foreign dynasty could have worked harder for the life of his little one. He watched all night and for two nights until a nurse was found in the neighborhood who could feed the infant. Then he went back to his work as a freight handler for Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, happy in the thought that if precious things come in small packages, he had the greatest jewel in the baby line, perhaps, in the whole world.

Mrs. Rose Dill, his wife, was the sixth child of her parents, and John Paul is her sixth, five of whom are living. None was of unusual weight, and all have developed normally.

As is usual in case of an extraordinary child, brains were being racked to find a name for the little one, whose greatest peculiarity is that his bones have not been fully formed. One of the neighbors happened to overhear this statement of fact and said:

"They are bringing John Paul Jones bones from France now, and I wonder if they would help fit out the baby."

That was enough. The child has been called John Paul and "Jonas" ever since.

If you wash your face every day with very hot, not warm, water, using either a complexion brush or a large soft cloth, blackheads may be entirely prevented. Always rinse in cold water.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.
Peter Frey, of Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month, as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it and after taking three bottles I began to get better and continued to improve until I was entirely well."

SUPREME COURT TO TAKE ACTION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The Supreme Court took action yesterday to inform the lawyers of California that only on rare occasions would an appeal from a decision of the Appellate Court be considered. It is stated that the Supreme Court will endeavor to see that there is uniformity in the decisions and in the interpretation of the constitution by the new tribunals, but will not hear petitions for the right to appeal unless some important point of law is involved.

It is pointed out that if an appeal may be taken in every case the work of the Supreme Court will in no way be lightened, as planned when the new Appellate Courts were established by the Legislature. An appeal from a decision of the Sacramento Court of Appeals in the case of Sam Davis, convicted of burglary, brought forth the statement of the Justices' views.

TO KEEP THE JAPS AT HOME

Alameda County League Will Affiliate With San Francisco.

Steps are to be immediately taken by the Chinese, Japanese and Korean Exclusion League of Alameda county to affiliate with the like organization in existence in San Francisco. At the meeting held by the League last night the president, T. F. Marshall, was delegated to meet with the officials of the San Francisco organization upon the method to be followed in this affiliation.

O. A. Tveitmo, president of the San Francisco Exclusion League, some time ago invited the local exclusionists to affiliate with those in San Francisco. No action had hitherto been taken in this matter but it was brought up last night. Some of the members were in favor of only working in harmony with the San Francisco people and the discussion occupied a good part of the evening.

George K. Smith, State Labor Organizer, in replying to one of the members who stated that he did not believe the local league would be able to accomplish much by itself, said:

"I hate to hear anyone say that there is not enough strength among the local laboring people to make a good fight and a strong fight in this matter. There is plenty of material right here at our own doors for a few energetic workers to use to show the most prejudiced person in the United States the harm that the yellow hordes from the Orient are doing and can do to our people."

"If there is a man here who has any doubt that we can find proof of this fact, and such proof as will open the eyes of our legislators at Washington, just let him hitch up his horse and buggy some Sunday and drive over into Contra Costa county. There he will see such sights as will make him sore for some time to come. On one ranch over there, near Walnut Creek, the largest ranch in that section of the country, I am told, there is hardly a white man to be seen. All those broad acres that might give employment to hundreds and hundreds of white men, of Americans, of your own fellow countrymen, are now operated by Japanese. So fond of Mr. Jap is the owner, in fact, that he has gone to work and built there a Japanese house of bamboo in such manner as the houses in Japan are built, so that the laborers may feel quite at home."

"On another place the Japs are the lessees. They have taken the property for a monthly rental and the owner is meanwhile enjoying himself touring in some other part of the country."

"These are some of the facts that make it possible for the smallest body of persons who will work together to kill this movement that is eating away at the very root of the American laborer's welfare. Show your legislators at the national capital some of these facts. If just a few of you will go out in your own neighborhood and gather statistics of the ways in which the Orientals are keeping Americans from earning a living in their native land and present these statistics in places they will do some good you will see what a weight they will carry."

Plans for the future of the local league and the ways in which it is to carry on its work were under discussion. It was decided to rent Maple hall one night in each week for an indefinite period. At least one big mass meeting, open to the public, will be held there each month and at these meetings there will be competent speakers. Meanwhile there will be committees appointed to gather statistics of the presence of the Asiatics in various walks of labor. These statistics will ultimately be put into such shape that they may be forwarded to Washington.

The necessity of avoiding all forms of violence toward the Japanese and Chinese was strongly urged at the meeting by President Marshall. He said:

"I am not in favor of violence to these people. Before us is the ballot box and over us is the standard of a constitutionally governed nation. There is every reason for its avoidance."

"Were we living under the Russian regime we might excuse violence. There the conditions and the people are different. I hope the situation here will never reach the point that it has there. While we have men of brains who can appreciate the evils and the remedies thereof of this country we must rely upon them to pull us out of our difficulties."

The following committee is to make the arrangements: Mrs. William Hodge, Mrs. R. E. Gray, Mrs. H. F. Eber, Mrs. O. Morgan, Miss E. Rushing and Budd Frederick Eber.

Next Thursday further preparations will be made. New members are to be initiated on that night also.

WILL TEST NEW WILL PAVE THE SALARY LAW AVENUE

SUPREME COURT WILL PASS ON MATTER OF INCREASE FOR JUDGES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The Supreme Court granted an alternative writ of mandate yesterday in the case of Ralph C. Harrison, vs. E. P. Colgan, Controller, and made the same returnable before the court in bank on Monday, September 4, at 10 a. m. This is a suit to test the constitutionality of the statute passed by the last Legislature raising the salaries of the Justices of the Supreme Court and of the Justices of the District Courts of Appeal.

The statute, under which it is contended that they are entitled to their salary, reads as follows: "The annual salary of each Justice of the Supreme Court is $8,000, and the annual salary of each Justice of the several District Courts of Appeal is $7,000." (Statutes 1905, page 234.) This statute is an amendment to the earlier provision of the law, which declared: "The annual salary of each Justice of the Supreme Court is $6,000 a year."

The court says: "Our conviction is absolutely fixed that the amendment above quoted has no application to any Justice of this Supreme Court now in office, during the term for which he has been elected, and that the salary of each of such Justices is, and must continue to be, in the absence of a constitutional amendment, during his term of office the sum of $6,000 a year. With this expression of our conviction upon this subject, in view of the fact that this is the only tribunal to which the District Court of Appeals can turn, we believe an alternative writ should be granted for the hearing and determination of such other questions as may be presented."

Justice McFarland concurred with the court in the order granting the alternative writ, but he says: "I think that all the questions involved in the petition for the writ should be left open until after full argument on the final hearing."

ACTOR GOODWIN BUYS PROPERTY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Nat Goodwin, the actor, is much alive to the opportunities afforded in San Francisco for the building up of fortune. The comedian has just purchased through Howell & Howell, the Lafayette, a handsome five-story brick apartment house on Sacramento street, between Octavia and Laguna. Every apartment is occupied and the monthly income is $1200. This will yield him nearly 8 per cent on the investment.

WORK ON SAN PABLO WILL BE DONE BY PRIVATE CONTRACT.

Director Edwin Meese of the Board of Trade announced in response to a question asked by Director Leach at the meeting yesterday, that the work of macadamizing San Pablo avenue would be undertaken in a short while. He said that the permit to do the work had been granted to the Ransome Construction Company, and that the contracts had been drawn up for some time. Just what the delay was he was unable to state, but he was sure it was not with the Council.

The announcement that the work was to be done by private contract was not well received by the directors, but Mr. Meese said that, although the street would be macadamized and bituminized by blocks and portions of it left undone, it was the only way to have the work done.

The directors finally decided to have a committee call upon the Ransome Company and ascertain why the work had not been commenced and when it would be and report at the next meeting.

YOUNG LINEMAN IS ELECTROCUTED

SAN RAFAEL, July 22.—Hans Tikander, a young Finnish telephone lineman from San Francisco, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon while working on Corte Madera hill, just over the North Shore tunnel. Tikander and W. H. Stockhurst were repairing the telephone lines at this point, under the supervision of Foreman J. C. Winn.

Tikander was sitting on a crossbar of a telephone pole, when he let a guy wire slip through his hands and come in contact with the heavily charged electric wire which operates the North Shore Railroad's semaphore system. Twenty-five hundred volts passed through him, causing instant death. Word was sent to the Coroner, who brought the body to San Rafael. As far as can be ascertained, Tikander had no relatives in this country. There were several letters written in Finnish in his pocket and a card bearing the inscription: "A lucky trip and a welcome home" written in Swedish.

"Yes," said the fair young girl, "everybody says I'm just the picture of mamma."
"Well," replied the gallant youth, "you're certainly a flattering picture."

NEW HOTEL IS ASSURED

THE MERRILL HOUSE ON TWENTY-FIFTH STREET TO BE RE-BUILT AND ENLARGED.

Oakland is going to have a tourist hotel after all, but it won't be built by outside capital.

J. Conant has determined to turn the old Merrill House on Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, just west of Telegraph avenue into a first-class family and tourist caravansary and to this end he has commenced the preliminary work. It was announced some time ago that Mr. Conant intended to improve this property but it was not until recently that he determined to convert it into a hotel.

HAVE EIGHTY ROOMS.
An addition will be built which will make about eighty rooms in the house. A spacious dining room will be added and a porch going clear around the building will give it the appearance of a hotel and provide additional comfort for the guests. Then there will be a roof garden and other conveniences.

The boring of a well to furnish water for the hotel has just been completed and plans are now being finished for the construction of a huge tank which will have a capacity of 20,000 gallons. A dynamo and pump will be installed to complete the plant.

In addition to this work Mr. Conant is building two houses on Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets for the market. They will cost about $4,500 each and are the first of six which he intends to erect this summer.

READY NEXT WINTER.
Mr. Conant hopes to have the hotel ready for the winter tourist travel. He is now in correspondence with several responsible parties who are anxious to take a lease of the property.

GENERAL FUNSTON
IN AN ACCIDENT

MONTREY, July 22.—General Fred Erik Funston, commander of the Department of California, his aide Lieutenant Long and Lieutenant Burton J. Mitchell department inspector of small arms practice narrowly escaped death this afternoon at 2 o'clock when an electric car crashed into the carriage in which they were riding. The party was returning to the Presidio of Monterey from the Hotel del Monte. On Alvarado street the driver Morris Smith turned directly in front of a moving car which struck the carriage.

Smith was thrown out and bruised. The officers jumped General Funston had his left leg severely bruised but was otherwise unharmed. Lieutenant Mitchell sustained painful bruises about the head and body. Lieutenant Long escaped with a few slight bruises. The street car was traveling at a slow rate of speed and the ground was sounding.

LOCAL MARKET IS LIVELY
DESPITE VACATION

Several Large Deals Have Been Made—Many Small Transactions.

This has been about an average week for the Oakland realty men. While there have been no especially large transactions there have been quite a few small sales which have helped to balance things up. Several of the big agents report some first-class deals under way, and in several instances deposits have been made which assure that they will eventually be consummated.

$20,000 SALE.
The J. H. Macdonald Company reports the sale of the two-story building on the southwest corner of Telegraph avenue and Twentieth street to Lewis, Ruth and Lucy Cary for Mrs. Caroline Bechtel for about $20,000.

The building is 54 by 38 feet and contains one store and four flats. It is a good piece of income property and brought a very fair price. The same firm has two other equally pretentious deals under way. Manager Jackson says he is having steady calls for lots in the Adams Point subdivision tract. The lots are going more rapidly than anticipated.

HOMES IN BARKER TRACT.
Manager Woodward of the Realty Bond and Finance Company reports a number of good sales in the Barker and Woodward Park tracts. There have been no houses put up in the Woodward tract as yet, but a number are contemplated. In the Barker tract there is much building going on. The houses that are being put up vary in cost from $1,500 to $3,500 and represent various types of architecture with the Mission and Colonial predominating. Among those who are building or who have built in the Barker tract are the following: Thomas J. Sheridan of San Francisco, Mrs. Alice Cornwall of San Francisco, G. A. Welton of Fruitvale, Peter F. Mulaney, Furth & Merriman, Morley Salsbery, Sarah E. Hueston, Hattie M. Wilson, Mrs. Jacob Moll and Lars Johnson, all of this city.

SELL $20,000 TRACT.
Taylor Brothers have had the most successful month since the firm began business in Oakland, according to a statement made by one of the brothers yesterday.

Considering the fact that this is the vacation season and many people are absent from the city the volume of business which we have handled since the middle of June is remarkable, said he. This is really the first breathing spell we have had for four weeks. We have a number of deals pending in addition to those already closed.

We have sold a large subdivision tract in East Oakland to parties who intend to put the lots on the market as soon as they have been improved. There are about ninety-six lots in the tract. The price paid was $20,000.

Other sales reported by the firm are a residence on Valdez street to Francis B. Colby for $3,500 residence on Linda Vista avenue to Dr. F. Wilkes for Jacob Peterson six lots in Tuleto Park to W. S. Jones residence on Chestnut street for the Pacific Surety Company to Robert Robinson and house on Twenty-fourth street for Robert Robinson to George Hostrawer.

THREE IMPORTANT LEASES.

The Layman Company reports a quiet week in so far as big sales are concerned. The company has been busy attending to other matters, though, and after the rush of the past two or three weeks the employees are really glad to get a little breathing spell and opportunity to catch up in other lines of the business.

During the last week three substantial leases were closed for the following firms: Store at 953 Broadway for E. A. Whitaker to L. Morrison, one-half of the upper floor in the building at the northwest corner of Broadway and Eleventh street for A. Jonas to Hyde & Chapin and the store on the south side of Eighth street, between Broadway and Washington for J. W. Havens to the Central Furniture Company.

BIG BILLIARD HALL.

The lease of the half floor on the second story of the Jones building is for a billiard and pool room, to be fitted up in magnificent style and run after the fashion of the swell pool and billiard parlors in the East. There will be nothing on the coast that can touch it for richness and tasty furnishings, the proprietors say.

The store on Eighth street is the one which the Board of Public Works recently granted a building permit to improve according to the city fire ordinances. The building is to be made up to date in every particular with plate glass front, etc. A long lease has been signed by the Furniture Company.

WANT RESIDENCE PROPERTY.

Among the inquiries for residence property the past week have been many strangers, according to Mr. Layman who said:

"Our renting business has been very satisfactory. A fact that would seem to indicate that we are going to have a brisk fall. We have been receiving on an average of five deposits a day on houses."

The demand for stores in the business section of the city is greater than the supply.

A. J. Snyder reports several more sales in his subdivision tract and prospects of a number of handsome new homes in that section. Inquiries for residence property and stores in the business part of the town are noticeably brisk with Mr. Snyder and his assistants have plenty to keep them occupied showing available property of this class to prospective lessees.

BUYS WATER FRONT LAND.

The Union Gas Engine Company of San Francisco has bought the T. P. Whitelaw acreage on the water front and it is understood the company will move its entire plant to this side as soon as new buildings are erected.

The property includes between four and five acres and is at the entrance of the tidal canal facing Shasta avenue. It is within easy reach of the railroad and being on the water front will be par-

SOON START
BIG PLANT

MAGNASITE COMPANY PREPARES TO MANUFACTURE BRICKS.

Within another month it is expected that Oakland's new industry—the plant of the American Magnesite Company—will be in full operation. This particular plant is to manufacture brick and is one of several industries which this company will eventually establish on this side of the bay.

The buildings are located on the waterfront directly opposite Clinton station, which is the first stop on the Southern Pacific Broad Gauge going east from the depot at Broadway and Seventh streets. There are to be five buildings, three of which are practically completed. They are substantial structures being built of iron and Carnegie's brick, with galvanized iron roofs.

The engines and dryers are in the main building. Much of the machinery has already arrived. Two big dynamos are being put in position as well as a three hundred horse power boiler. Four kilns are being constructed and about two hundred feet from the main building men are busy erecting a gigantic steel tank with a capacity of eight thousand barrels of crude oil.

The company expects to employ from thirty to fifty hands at the outset and later on as many as a hundred men will be given employment.

PRICE NOT GIVEN.

The price paid for the land is not given and the company is not disposed to give out any information at this time regarding its plans. The report of the sale comes from authentic sources. Mr. Whitelaw is the well-known ship wrecker.

The Union Gas Engine Company is made up of a combination of three or four large gas engine companies and is reported to be the largest concern of the kind on the Pacific Coast.

Just when the company intends to start work on its new plant is not made known but it is understood that orders for the plants have been placed and as soon as they are passed upon the construction work will be commenced.

CHINESE GLAMOR
FOR MORE LIBERTY

NEW YORK, July 22.—A special to the Brooklyn Eagle from Washington says President Roosevelt's order to the immigration authorities to treat Chinese arrivals with more courtesy and consideration is not satisfactory to the Chinese Government. This statement was made today by a member of the Chinese Embassy. He went on to explain that his Government is fighting for something more than polite treatment from employees of the immigration service of the United States. Continuing the Chinese diplomat said:

"It is the overriding of our treaty rights to which China objects. Our Government has never recognized the right of the United States to supersede the agreement of 1880 in the manner it has done. China is taking steps to protect its rights and will not calmly submit to the course of the United States. Evidence is being secured by Chinese Consul all over the country, which is to be used as the basis for claims for damages against this Government."

SHANGHAI, July 22.—The boycott of American goods is now working, but it has been agreed that the completion of all running contracts for supplies will be allowed. Meanwhile all the Chinese shops refuse to sell American goods, including Standard Oil. All schools and colleges in this section have decided to discard all American books.

GREAT INCREASE IN NEW SETTLERS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The California Promotion Committee announces a great increase in the number of people who have come into California during the last six months, as compared with the first six months of 1904. The figures show that the number of new settlers is large as they are representative of the passenger traffic over but one railroad. Not only has the west-bound travel grown in the last six months, as compared with the corresponding period in 1904, but the east-bound travel has fallen off very materially, leaving the conclusion that while more people are entering California, fewer are leaving.

The east-bound through travel for the first six months of 1905 was 86,291, or 5.5 per cent less than that of 1904 which was 91,346. On the other hand the west-bound through travel for the first half of 1905 was 16.5 per cent more than that of 1904, or 109,376, as compared with 94,058 for the first six months of 1904.

AUTO KILLS LAD
AND SPEEDS AWAY

NEW YORK, July 22.—Hurled thirty feet in the air by a big touring car speeding along the Southern boulevard this afternoon 11-year-old Fred Bushing fell on his head and was instantly killed. The four occupants of the machine laughed aloud as the driver put on full power and the car sped away, leaving the boy a mangled form in the road. Half a dozen persons witnessed the murder and shouted after the car in vain. A big force of detectives has been detailed to locate the automobile and arrest its occupants.

Kid Sullivan Outpointed by Clever Jimmy Britt

ED SMITH

Gives Tribune Readers a Description of Fight

WHO WILL FIGHT HIM NEXT?

JAMES EDWARD BRITT

BY ED. SMITH

Jimmy Britt has once more shown that he is entitled to all the credit given him as a champion pugilist. Last night, as predicted in THE TRIBUNE a week ago today, he won from Kid Sullivan by continually jabbing him and getting away before the Kid could land his sleep-producing punch. Sullivan tried hard all through the contest to land a knockout blow on Britt, but was not fast enough with it. In fact, the Kid telegraphs his punch long before letting it go, and the only time he could land it on the evasive Britt was in the mix-up, in which Sullivan was particularly strong. Sullivan's footwork is bad. He stands too flat on his feet, and spreads his legs apart to such an extent that Britt could jab and get away before the Baltimore boy could get started into his counter. Sullivan won the admiration of the crowd by his clean boxing and fairness. In the fifteenth round he slipped to his knees and his gloves were covered with rosin. When he got to his feet, the Kid stepped back and wiped them off on his trunks, which was a very fair and gentlemanly act. In years gone by, George Dawson, the Australian, made a practice of falling and covering his gloves with rosin, that he might out his opponent up, but that is not Sullivan's tactics. When the men entered the ring and stripped for action, one could not help noticing the condition of the pair. Britt was tanned; in fact, he looked better to me last night than ever before. When Sullivan entered, wrapped in a colored bath robe, he reminded one of the one-time demon, Joe Walcott. He is squat and broad, and walked around the ring trying the floor just as the dark-skinned fighter used to do. During the time that the boxers posed for their photos it was noticeable that Sullivan eyed Britt from head to foot, while Jimmy glanced restlessly around at the crowd. When the smoke from the flashlight had cleared away the gong rang and the men started. In the first round they sparred around, sizing each other up. Britt did most of the leading and seemed very confident. In the second round Britt started to peg away with his left at the Kid's head and body. Sullivan surprised the crowd by his clever blocking, and in the first real mix-up of the contest, near the end of the second round, showed he was not to be trifled with and that at that kind of milling would have as good a chance as Britt. Just at the close of the round Jimmy landed several straight lefts to the face, and the Kid went to his corner with his nose bleeding. The third round Sullivan misled from his corner and chased Britt around the ring until he cornered him; then Jimmy turned and fought his way into a clinch. Britt landed down and used his left to good advantage, leading and getting away from the Kid before the latter had time to steady himself.

Fourth round—Sullivan showed a little disposition to lead and kept poking at Britt most of the round. Near the end of the period, Britt showed the Kid against the ropes and they mixed it. The Kid landed his right in Jimmy's mid-section and the local boy winced and twisted his face, showing the force that the blow had. Round five opened with Britt pegging away with his left and getting away or going into a clinch. Sullivan tried hard in the clinches to use the right hand kidney punch, and although Britt used great judgment in the way he held Sullivan, the Kid landed several in every round during the contest. Just at the close of the round Britt registered a left swing that shook Sullivan up considerably. The sixth round found Britt still doing the leading, which seemed to be his instructions from his corner, in order that Sullivan could not get a chance to rush. Sullivan, on account of poor footwork, misses many good openings. In the seventh round Britt showed more aggressiveness and wanted to mix up from the top of the bell. He used his straight left to the head and left hook to stomach with good effect. Near the close of the round Sullivan caught Britt a clip on the chin, which staggered the local boy. The Kid was on top of him in a second, swinging right and left. Sullivan after it had rang. It was the hardest punch landed on him that he had ever felt and he landed a hard right on the Kid during the twenty rounds. The only knockdown of the contest was in the eighth, when Britt brought Sullivan to the mat with a left and right to the jaw. The Kid took the count of nine and stalled for a short time after getting up. But at the end of the round he was forcing Jimmy around the ring. From this round to the sixteenth it was this: Sullivan would walk after Britt, while Jimmy would use his left on the head and body and dance away before Sullivan could get set. The crowd hooted Jimmy several times, calling to him to stand up and fight, but Britt paid no attention to them, and fought a very brainy fight. Herford sent his man in to take a chance in the sixteenth, and although the game and willing Sullivan tried hard, Britt seemed to have his fighting form down by this time, and it was another case of brains and cleverness winning over brute strength. From this time to the end of the contest, both men tried for a knockout, Sullivan, on account of his poor footwork, lost many good openings. Britt landed on jaw often, but did not seem to hurt the Washington lad much. When, at the end of the twentieth round, Referee Welch gave the decision to Britt the crowd went wild. Britt certainly earned the decision, and, in my estimation, put up one of the greatest contests of his career. Sullivan was a tough opponent, and those who said he was a "bum" and that Britt was picking easy game, must feel rather crestfallen.

BY JIMMY BRITT

Sullivan proved a rough customer and a game fellow. He possesses a good wallop in either hand, and when he landed I felt his punches. He fought a clean fight and was always willing to mix things. I think I accommodated him somewhat, but I refrained from doing too much mixing, as I figured I have a contract with Nelson on my hands, and I wanted to win and I could not take any chances. There was no time in the fight that I was in danger. My confidence of ultimately winning never left me, and, although I could not knock him out, I wore him down and won the decision. He was hard to reach with my left body punch and I switched to straight lefts for his sore nose and used my right with more frequency than I ever did before. Sullivan proved his gameness, because I punished him throughout the battle. Nelson next, and I will win as before. Sullivan is a more dangerous man than the Swede, in my opinion.

BY KID SULLIVAN

If I had not injured my left hand in the tenth round, I would have beaten Britt. I landed a heavy one on his elbow and my hand hurt me. Although I used the left after that, I did not dare to use it with any great force. Britt is a good fighter. He is a cleverer man than Nelson, but does not hit as hard as the Swede. I can beat Britt in a finish fight and I would like to take him on again. I had a very good chance of winning up to the time I injured my hand. I am sorry the decision went against me, but I tried hard to bring home the money. Britt was faster than I. I guess. He is one of the best men I ever fought and he will make all the lightweights step lively. My condition was perfect, and I received fair treatment. I like this town and would like to stay here a while and get another fight when my hand gets well.

THE BOILERS.

The Bennington had four cylindrical straightaway boilers, commonly called locomotive type boilers. Each boiler was 11 feet 9 inches long and 3 feet 9 inches in diameter. They were originally designed to carry 160 pounds of steam, but the last log received at the department shows that the safety valves were set for 145 pounds and that she carried from 135 to 140 pounds of steam in cruising. The boilers were fifteen years old, according to records, but were re-tubed in 1903. The admiral of the Pacific fleet in October, 1903, reported to the Navy Department that the boilers were in need of repairs, but that the repairs were being made. They were not repaired until March 1904, when temporary repairs were made on her boilers to put her in cruising condition. It is stated by the Bureau of Steam Engineering that there has been nothing in the reports coming to the department to show that the boilers were in an unsafe condition.

THE RECORDS.

As soon as the news of the explosion reached the steam-engineering bureau all the records and reports relating to the Bennington were reviewed by Admiral Rue, chief of the bureau, and later he called on Acting Secretary Darling, when he advised him fully of the facts pertaining to the boilers of the ill-fated ship.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling made the following statement relative to the disaster:

"The accident has learned with the deepest regret of the disaster which overtook the Bennington. Nothing unusual had been reported to the department with respect to the boilers in the Bennington. A detailed report on the condition of the boilers was made in March, last and repairs were made in the following month. The boilers on the ships of our navy are receiving constant attention and are constantly under the supervision as well as the inspection of engineers."

GIVES AID.

A telegram was received tonight from Mayor John L. Sehon of San Diego, offering aid and extending sympathy. Captain Peters, acting chief of the Bureau of Navigation, replied by sending the sincere appreciation of the department to the people of San Diego.

Acting Secretary Darling tonight, after the receipt of the telegram from Commander Young giving details of the disaster, said:

"The accident is the most distressing that has befallen an American vessel since the blowing up of the Maine. The sacrifice of these lives is as truly made on the altar of their country as if made in battle. These men died at their posts, and must always be honored by all patriotic Americans."

A cablegram was sent by the Navy Department to Honolulu tonight requesting the commandant of the station there to inform Mrs. Perry of the death of her husband, Esquig Perry. A message also was sent to Mrs. Victor Blue at the same place advising her that her husband had left the ship before the explosion.

Acting Secretary Darling and other officials remained at the department until midnight to receive any further details that might come and be prepared to make any steps necessary to render assistance.

Feet Admiral Goodrich, commanding

the Pacific fleet, is sailing from the north for Puget Sound, and if he arrives in time will be left to him to conduct an investigation of the accident. Otherwise the department will pursue the usual course.

BRODIE L. DUKE CHARGES HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, July 22.—Another chapter in the matrimonial troubles of Brodie L. Duke and Alice Webb Duke was begun today, when the latter applied in the Supreme Court for alimony of $250 a week and counsel fees of $5000, pending the trial of her husband's suit for absolute divorce.

Mrs. Duke was present and heard the alleged record of her life laid bare in scolding language by her husband's attorney.

Mrs. Duke's attorney entered a strong denial of her alleged immorality. The charges of misconduct on a sleeping car between Chicago and Detroit on May 2, upon which Duke's action for divorce is based, was declared to be the outgrowth of a conspiracy trumped up by Duke's lawyers, and which has cost him already more than $10,000.

The affidavit of George Day, a New York real estate broker, was introduced, and told that the charges that Mrs. Duke was at one time one of the leading promoters of the Depeu Land Improvement Company, by which the Equitable Life Assurance Co. of New York had loaned $200,000, and which was a failure.

The Court accepted the written testimony offered by both sides and reserved decision.

STRIKE BREAKERS TO BE ARRESTED

CHICAGO, July 22.—Evidence of a sensational nature revealing the identity of the "wrecking crew" of eight armed men who beat Michael Donnelly, president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Union of America, last Sunday at Bricklayers' Hall, and prevented the election of the Chicago Federation of Labor, was secured.

Assistant State's Attorney Olson has secured the story of a prominent labor leader, whose identity is being concealed to prevent him from receiving rough treatment. The labor man was secretly summoned for examination, and when he learned the information the State had already, he is said to have revealed all the facts surrounding the slaying of Donnelly.

The identity of the eight members of the "wrecking crew" was disclosed. Arrests will follow, it is said, and Grand Jury action is promised. Instead of being strangers, as was alleged by those who were forced to leave the hall, the men are well known in labor circles. It is said the newly found witnesses will place the stand next week in the meantime he is being shadowed, as he is in fear of his life.

ALLEGED PRINCE HAS VANISHED

NEW YORK, July 22.—Following closely on the disappearance of Russia's navy and army, one of her princes has vanished, after a brief flying Dutchman appearance at this port. He said his name was Rostislav Nitzky, a young man, and a rebel battleship had got from the same man, his father. Upon his arrival the man was detained at Ellis Island and the authorities found he had enough money to keep him from becoming a public charge. When he was taken to the island a report spread that he had gone to visit Pastor Hottelitzky of the Greek Catholic Church, who was a friend of his. "It is perfectly ridiculous," he said yesterday. "There is no such man, he does not exist, and I never met him."

The Russian consul said he knew nothing of any such prince, or of the arrival of such a man in the country.

DEWEY THEATER.

"The Loan of a Wife" in itself is a dangerous thing but the situations all happen in the play at the Dewey Theater. Kelly and Cummings, the new managers have taken hold of the theater with a vim and vigor and are fortunate in giving the public what it wants. The show offered is one of good culture and every act is well received.

The mere announcement that a wife is loaned to help a young man, Lathario, to get out of troubles is in itself a most absurd situation. Then when he borrows babies to make his rich uncle think that he is the most truthful being, and that his intentions are more and more intermingled with happy laughs and tears of joy. Finally the whole plot is worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned and ends as it should, in the last chapter.

The "Loan of a Wife" is the best thing ever shown. Every turn is one of finish, every word spoken is given its due weight.

The rest of the bill is very good. The Klein brothers in their new juggling act makes a hit. Silvia Puerrari the woman with the Patti voice, has drawn heavily this week. It is very seldom that a voice of such excellence is heard at a theater where the admission is only ten cents. The entire bill is one of the best that has ever been given in Oakland.

Next week special features have been secured by the management and a grand vaudeville bill is promised. A new play will be presented by the Dewey Stock Company.

WILL HOLD REUNION.

There will be a picnic and reunion of the Volunteer Firemen of Berkeley at California Park, Third and Camella streets, West Berkeley, Sunday, July 24. There will be a vaudeville show and prize dancing.

ASK FOR BETTER LOCAL VISITORS FERRY SERVICE AT THE FAIR

EXPRESSMEN SAYS THAT THE ACCOMMODATIONS ARE NOT ADEQUATE.

The Alameda County Expressmen's Association has requested the Board of Trade to join it in an effort to secure better and more adequate service for the transference of freight on the Estuary route.

The merchants of this city, Berkeley and Alameda will all join in the move as the present service, they claim, has resulted in a great loss to them.

Some time ago the Board of Trade sent a request to the Southern Pacific officials asking that something be done to relieve the pressure on the creek route. The company answered that the steamer Thorndyke would be put on the early morning run to relieve the Garden City, but so far it has not been done.

There had been complaints against this steamer because of its being open and expressmen claim that their teams have contracted severe colds on the trip across the bay. In respect to this the company states that at present the Thorndyke is the only steamer available and that until other arrangements can be made it is the best that can be done.

This being the case the expressmen stated they will not be responsible for the delivery of freight on time to the business men of this city, and have expressed themselves as willing to patronize any ferry line that will put on a steamer or line of steamers for the transfer of merchandise between this city and San Francisco.

THE NON-REFILLABLE BOTTLE IS HERE AT LAST

A Marvelous New Invention Which is a Sure Guarantee Against Fraud and Imposture—The Quest of a Century Has Finally Ended in Success.

NECK OF HORGAN NON-REFILLABLE BOTTLE LYING ON ITS SIDE

The quest of a century has ended. A non-refillable bottle has been invented at last.

One is on exhibition at THE TRIBUNE office, and anyone who thinks he can refill it can earn one hundred dollars by doing so. Anybody is at liberty to make the experiment. Any person can make a hundred dollars by refilling the bottle.

This device is known as the Horgan Non-Refillable Bottle. There is nothing peculiar about it but the stopper. In appearance it is an ordinary glass bottle, but when once filled and emptied it can never be refilled. It can be made any size or shape desired, and its cost is only a little above the cost of other bottles of the same size and class.

It is not a mere protective bottle that claims by one device or another to afford protection to the bottler and the consumer, but a BOTTLE THAT CANNOT BE REFILLED AT ALL—BY ANYBODY, OR IN ANY WAY save of course, by drilling a hole through the glass.

The cut accompanying this shows the arrangement of the device or combination that renders the bottle non-refillable in the real sense of the word.

Every part is of glass and so there is no danger of corrosion or affecting the contents of the bottle, as is the case with every other device ever approaching practicality that has ever been patented.

The whole device is in the neck, which makes it adaptable to bottles of any shape or kind of body. The parts of the device are a certain form of neck, two glass balls, a driver and a valve, clear opaque or colored as may be desired and a glass plug which is cemented in the neck below the cork.

The placing of the device is simple and can be done by a child. The bottle is filled, the valve ball is dropped in, then the driver ball then the plug is inserted a bit of cement put into its slot and the work is done. In a short time the bottle is ready for shipment.

The operation of the device is as follows. On inverting the bottle for pouring the driver ball drops down in the hollow of the plug and allows the valve ball to drop from its seat in the neck and the liquid to flow out past the balls and through the four channels of the plug, the compensating quantity of air entering by the same route. When the pouring is done and the bottle set upright the valves drop back in place and so on until the bottle is emptied. Once empty, it cannot be refilled unless the laws of nature are inverted or suspended.

Science and ingenuity have so far alike been baffled in the attempt. The valves cannot be manipulated with a wire on account of the angular channels in the glass plug. The vacuum process and attempting to force the liquid in with a pump alike serve to drive the valve ball hard into the neck, where it will stay. The seepage method is counteracted by the operation of the balls when the bottle is brought to the horizontal, which take the position shown in the cut. All the old and many new methods of refilling this bottle have alike been fruitless.

The simplicity of the device and its operation is apparent at a glance to any intelligent person. As said before the device can be applied to bottles of any size or shape, and used for any kind of the mobile liquids.

The parts can be readily arranged in one making to secure a flow suited to the liquid to be placed in the bottle.

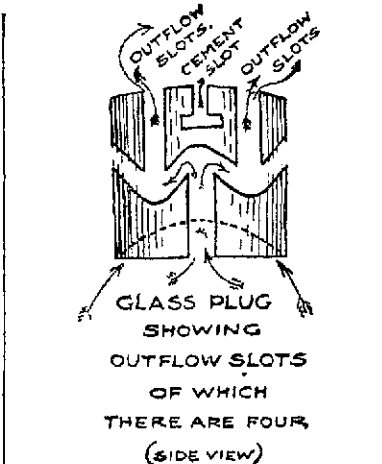

The valve of a really non-refillable bottle of practical construction and reasonable cost can not easily be estimated.

Not only in this country, but in every other, where the manufacturer wishes to give and the consumers to get genuine articles for consumption, the need has long been felt and the cry for such a bottle as the one before us has been loud and persistent, and does not abate.

For a bottle that would insure them real protection and allow them to reap the full fruits of their ownership and advertising, the several proprietors of various commodities, sauces, bitters, whiskeys, medicines, toilet articles, etc., both in this country and abroad, have standing offers of bonuses aggregating near or over a half a million dollars. These offers and the prospective general demand have aroused many inventors to exert their skill to produce the required article. More patents have been granted on non-refillable bottles than on any other single article, but the fact that there is not one in use on the market proclaims their failure to meet the requirements. The only attempts at protection so far in any use are devices within or without the bottle, which show that it has been opened, but which offer no hindrance to its being replenished or refilled with an article of inferior grade.

The company owning the patent rights on this bottle was incorporated under the laws of California in July 1904 with W. S. Leake as president, Wm. B. Horgan Vice-President and A. L. McDonald Secretary. Main office is Room 98, Crocker Building, San Francisco.

The enterprise grew out of the efforts of Wm. B. Horgan, a native of Hardin county, Kentucky, resident of San Francisco, to produce a non-refillable bottle and he took out a patent on a device with a single ball in 1903. This did not answer and with the assistance of A. L. McDonald the work was prosecuted until the practicability of making a non-refillable bottle entirely of glass at a figure that would allow its general use was demonstrated. The bottle was then exhibited to Mr. W. S. Leake of San Francisco, who recognizing its merits, agreed to furnish the money necessary for its perfection, taking out patents and organizing the company.

Patents were applied for and issued by the United States, Canada, Great Britain and several other European countries, where the demand for such a bottle as this is as great in proportion as it is in the United States.

The bottle itself, with the special conformation of the neck, is, of course, blown in a mold as usual, while the plug and the balls, which complete the combination, are of pressed glass.

From the first inquiries it was ascertained that the cost of production would be at a very low figure, and a later invention of a glass blowing machine by a Mr. Hoffman of Indiana not only secures accuracy and uniformity in shaping the neck, but cuts down the cost of manufacture to a figure that will insure the widest use of the invention.

The advantages of such a bottle need not be pointed out to the producers of California who put out pure goods, and hardly to the general public, who want such goods, but are too frequently imposed upon by imitations put into the bottles which originally held the genuine articles.

The saying "let the buyer beware" need no longer hold. It is now within the power of the producer to protect them and himself by the use of the bottle before us.

The bottle can be seen at THE TRIBUNE office, where one hundred dollars awaits any one who can refill it.

OFFERS REWARD FOR APPENDIX

DENVER July 22.—A Wm. Gregory of Providence son of the late Governor W. G. Gregory of Rhode Island here with his mother and Dr. W. C. Gould of Boston says that he has lost his appendix which since its removal he had carried as a talisman and that he will give $500 to the man who finds it. Gregory says it was removed March 1 and put in a silver box by a Providence jeweler the date of the operation the surgeon's name and his own initials being placed upon the box. He lost it between the Nebraska line and Denver en route to this city. Dr. Gould is going to Melbourne to take care of the British Government Hospital there.

MINISTER WHIPS HIS SMALL CHILD

LINCOLN, Neb. July 22.—Rev. Martin Fleckenstein pastor of the German Lutheran Church at Minden Nebraska, was fined $10 and costs for whipping his seven-months-old child because it cried. Neighbors caused his arrest after frequent offenses of the kind. The judge levying the fine is severely criticised for "not giving the minister a jail sentence and a heavier fine."

PRISONER ESCAPES

New Policeman Allows Man to Give Him the Slip.

Policeman Milton Enigh who was recently appointed to the police force was yesterday entrusted with the task of accompanying Leo B. White who had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness in quest of bail and had the misfortune to allow his prisoner to escape. White said he could reach San Francisco he could easily procure the $5 ball necessary to secure his release. Enigh was willing to accompany his charge to the other side of the bay and when White asked for permission to telephone Enigh granted it. That was the last seen of White. The policeman waited a reasonable time and then made an investigation. He found that his charge had flown and at once reported the escape to his superior officers. It is thought by Chief of Police Hodgkins that Mr. White will turn up with the ball despite the fact that he gave the new policeman the slip. It is not probable that any additional charges will be preferred against White.

RAILROAD NOTES OF INTEREST.

PROMINENT DIRECTORS IN SAN FRANCISCO—WESTERN PACIFIC BIDS.

SAN FRANCISCO July 22.—Henry S. Manning of New York, a director in the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad commonly known as the Port Stillwell route arrived here yesterday in a private car and is registered at the St. Francis. Mr. Manning is a prominent financier of New York and is an important factor in the financing of the new road from Kansas City to Port Stillwell which has under construction about 2800 miles of the line. He is also a heavy stockholder in the San Pedro & Salt Lake. Mr. Manning was formerly president of the International Banking Company. He is accompanied by his wife and son on his Western trip, which he says, is simply for pleasure. The Stillwell road is being operated in five sections and work on the western end, from Port Stillwell, on the Gulf of Lower California eastward is being hurried to completion. Mr. Manning has been in California several times during which he and his family have visited all the important points along the coast.

Another delay in the opening of bids for the construction of the Western Pacific Railway was announced yesterday. It was previously given out that the bids would be opened in New York City on July 26th but it was stated at the local offices of the company yesterday that a postponement had been made to the last day of the month. Although no explanation is given for the delay by the officials of the company, it is generally understood that it is mainly due to the fact that several large contracting firms in the East that are desirous of bidding for the work found the time in which to look over the ground too short and at the request of the directors the awarding of contracts was postponed.

Chief Engineer Bogue who has been here for several weeks left suddenly Thursday evening and it is said his destination is New York where he will attend the opening of bids for construction work. General Manager E. C. Calvin of the Southern Pacific Company and his son and daughter left last night for Lake Tahoe where they will remain several days.

George W. Lucas general freight agent of the Southern Pacific Company returned yesterday from a trip to Alaska and the Portland Exposition after an absence of a month. It was announced at the offices of the Southern Pacific Company yesterday that the order 2900 cars of 100,000 capacity and 4000 box cars of the same capacity.

BRAKEMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

SANTA CRUZ July 22.—Charles H. Merrill a brakeman was struck by a flat car and was picked up by the brakemen and dragged several hundred feet to the Newell Creek trestle at Ben Lomond last night and that he is lying today is nothing short of a miracle. Merrill is a brakeman on the San Jose night freight out of Boulder Creek and was engaged in switching at Newell Creek near Ben Lomond. A runaway flat car came down the grade and struck Merrill on the back. He was thrown about ten feet forward and just as he was falling in some inexplicable manner he was picked up by the brake beam and several hundred feet was held hanging over the rail. A fall would have meant death. The car went over the Newell Creek trestle and all the time Merrill was dragged with his arm resting on the smooth rail. From the friction his arm was frightfully burned. It was all of four hundred feet before the car came to a standstill. The young fellow was then picked up by the trainmen and placed on a stretcher and carried to the caboose of the train. The engine was then coupled to this car and came at great speed to Santa Cruz with the injured man.

Sane and Safe Advice. Mrs. Vick, Senn tired of scolding because of her husband's bad habits. "When I see that you don't pay any attention to what I'm saying," she said, "I would be mad." "Well, keep the wound open, my dear," answered her husband absent-mindedly. Pleading Universal Custom. "Ananias had kept back a part of the price he had received for the land," said the apostle to his little drawback," he said to himself. "All the other fellows are getting it." But the prompt application of the Square Deal principle laid him out.

WIFE VS. WATER

Says His Spouse Went Long Time Without a Bath.

Two sorry husbands were granted divorces from strong-minded spouses today with whom they are unable to live on even peaceable terms. William J. Keifer a street car conductor, was given a final decree of separation from Mary Keifer on the ground of her extreme cruelty. According to the statement of Keifer he had not proceeded along the matrimonial path for a week, and while they were still on their honeymoon at Seattle before she struck him in the jaw and told him that she would do as she pleased. As further cause for complaint Keifer stated that she has a dislike for water and went for long stretches without a bath and when he finally insisted on her taking one it very nearly caused a separation then and there. He told her that he would not live with her unless she would take one and she finally complied with his request. Then they had trouble over the baby, for which Keifer says his wife acknowledged she had no love. One day he found her about to give it a bottle of milk that was almost boiling hot, and when he told her to cool it she held it under the pump until it was stone cold. Finally fearing the child might come to some unhappy end he took it and went to its mother and then brought his action for a divorce. He is at present a resident of Elmhurst but married his wife at San Rafael.

EXTREME CRUELTY. Aaron Schultz was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Rachael Schultz on the ground of her extreme cruelty. He is a traveling man and says that his wife has lost all love for him and has told him so many times. She refuses to mend his clothes or to go about with him when his duties call him away to cities at a distance. They were married at Albany, N. Y. in 1901 and have one little girl three years of age of whom he was granted the custody.

The sale continues this month.

THE YORKSHIREMAN AND THE CRAB.

He was a Yorkshireman, up in London for the first time and as he strolled along Holborn with his trusty tuxie by his side he became fascinated by the sight of a fishmonger's large open window in which were displayed a number of particularly fine crabs.

"Are these crabs alive?" he asked the fishmonger.

"Yes sir," said the man and, spotting a countryman he said "Put your finger here and try."

"No thank you," replied the Yorkshireman. "But I don't mind putting my dogs' tails there, to see if they can pinch."

"Very well sir," replied the other, and the experiment was tried.

No sooner had the crab gripped the dogs' tails than the quadruped bolted at full speed.

"Hi there!" said the fishmonger growing alarmed, "whistle to your dog he's gone with my crab."

"Not I," replied the Yorkshireman. "You whistle to your crab."

That night the Yorkshireman had crab for supper and the fishmonger had to enter to add on his books as a bad debt.—Tit Bits.

MULE OR SAILOR?

Admiral Dickens during the sham bombardment of Fort Monroe, smiled one morning as a sailor staggered past him with a bale of hay on his back.

"He makes me think," said the admiral, "of another sailor, a British one, whom I saw one day at Gibraltar."

"He too had a load of hay, and was toiling with it up from the little fishing village that lies at the foot of the great rock. I talked with him a little while, and as we parted, I said, 'Who are you, my man? What job do you hold here?'"

"Well," the sailor answered, as he took up the hay again, "I used to consider myself a British bluejacket, but I'm dashed if I don't begin to think I'm a commissary mule!"

"Poverty is a hard nurse, but she raises healthy children."

FRANK JORDAN ABANDONS ALAMEDA COUNTY

Clerk of the Supreme Court Changes His Residence From Oakland to Auburn—Cause, Too Much Jostling.

The blow has fallen! Alameda county is bereft, and mourning like Rachel for her children. No more at political conventions will Alameda lead the procession, singing that grand old anthem of political progress, One More River to Cross. The interest, fizz, sputter, pyrotechnics, snap, ginger cake-walking skirt-dancing, come-on-boys, ground-and-lofy tumbling trick mule riding, here-we-go-Gallagher, up-and-down-the-center-swing-your-partners-and-cross-over, all-hands-round-hoe-it-down-keep-it-up-and-all-the-hurroo, helufeller business has gone out of the politics of this county.

Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in Askelon but Frank C. Jordan has gone—left us, abandoned Alameda county to its fate and taken up his residence in Placer county—a region he discovered while on a famous journey in company with Professor J. G. Lemmon.

It was this celebrated expedition that earned him the title of "Skeeticks," and taught him the hitherto unknown truth that citrus fruits flourish best in the shadows of the sugar pines.

After dwelling in Alameda county since 1868, filling all sorts of offices and receiving all sorts of honors including a few passing jolts. Frank C. Jordan, Clerk of the Supreme Court, has taken his name off the register of this county and enrolled himself as a citizen of Placer county, where he and his family will reside in the future.

One of the reasons which impelled him to this painful political separation is the multitude of candidates for State offices in Alameda. They crowd the track in such numbers that many fall against the hurdles and keep their sores on public exhibition as a reproach to the winners of the handicaps.

Jordan will cast his lot with the Grangers, and if he does not retire from politics will line up with the farmers in future political conventions.

Seriously, Mr. Jordan has acquired a beautiful home in Auburn, and proposes to make that his permanent place of residence. He has simply changed his registration in accordance with his actual change of residence. This brings to a close, so far as residence is concerned, the most picturesque and unique political career in the annals of Alameda county. Mr. Jordan's official residence will continue to be San Francisco, however, and it is needless to say that he will not get very much out of touch with Alameda politics.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL MAKE REQUEST OF WESTERN PACIFIC.

WOMAN CAUGHT IN ACT OF JUMPING INTO THE WATER.

At the meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon the Railway and Transportation Committee of that body was authorized to communicate with the officials of the Western Pacific Railroad Company, with an effort to secure the railroad yards and shops of the company for location in this city.

As this is to be the terminal of the new railroad it will be pointed out to the officials of the company that this and not Marysville is the most advantageous point for the shops. It was stated at the meeting that the company had contemplated establishing the shops at the Yuba county seat and as no definite plans have been announced or undertaken it is thought that there may yet be time to secure the shops for Oakland.

With this end in view the railroad committee of the Board of Trade will use its influence in communication to secure the shops for Oakland.

A man is never driven to drink by what his wife doesn't say.

A woman giving her name as Kate Hall attempted to commit suicide by jumping into the estuary at the city wharf last night about 6 30 o'clock.

She was prevented from ending her life by a sailor T. J. Desmond who caught her just as she went over the side of the wharf. He summoned aid from the police and the woman was taken to the police station, where she was held for taking too much liquor. When questioned by the police she refused to make any statement aside from giving her name as Kate Hall and stating that she is a housewife.

THE KNAVE

Hard Battle is Promised
at the Coming Primaries in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Evidently the forthcoming campaign is to be one of the most desperate and bitter political battles ever fought in the city of San Francisco. From the way things are now opening up it is evident that there is to be little compunction about taking any advantage, however unfair, and both sides seem ready to go to any length to injure their opponents. If things are so lively at this stage of the game, what may we expect after the nominations are made and a battle to take the scalp of Mayor Schmitz has really begun.

The Ruef-Schmitz crowd, in addition to their trickery in locating the polling booths at great distances from the centers of the voting population, have put up a mean job on their opponents, and have summoned Fairfax Wheelan, Frank J. Symmes and others of their most active enemies to serve as election officers in the polling booths. This, of course, will keep these active workers from rallying the anti-administration forces, and the abuse of power on the part of Schmitz and Ruef is about as small and contemptible a bit of politics as we have seen in this city in many a long day.

Another instance of littleness on the part of Schmitz and Ruef was the attempt to order off the streets a wagon sent out by the Republican League calling upon the citizens to register and declaring that the grafters would vote. Evidently Schmitz understood that by the word "grafters" the League referred to himself and his followers, and his Secretary, Senator George Keane, threatened to arrest the driver if the wagon was not retired. This sort of thing tends to disgust such followers of Schmitz as stand for decency and fair treatment. The threat of arrest was a show of autocratic power almost as bad as that evidenced in the fight against "The Bulletin," when the police were not permitted to interfere with the rioting.

Ruef has been guilty of other trickery in the attempt to mislead the voters as to the affiliations of his clubs. He sends out his notices to the effect that his clubs are endorsed by, or are under the auspices of the "United Republican League." The use of the words "Republican League" is to give the impression that the club that is to hold a meeting is endorsed by the San Francisco Republican League, of which Clark and Fairfax Wheelan are the leaders. The United Republican League was an organization of two years ago, and in reality it has faded from political life. The use of its name is just a trick and an effort at a smart fraud. This is the sort of thing that Ruef seems to consider wise campaigning.

But on the other hand the opponents of Mayor Schmitz have not shown themselves any more high-minded. In fact, one of their sins of commission is quite as dangerous to the welfare of the general public as is the exercise of autocratic power by the Mayor with the police force to enforce his unlawful dictates. I refer to the use of the Grand Jury as a political machine. Some of the most active members of that Grand Jury are members of the Republican League. Some of them are closely identified with the Citizens' Alliance, which is the backbone of the movement to dethrone Schmitz. At least two of the members of that inquisitorial body, Foreman Tom Andrews and E. J. Bowes, secretary of the Police Committee, are supposed to be willing to run for Mayor against Schmitz; and Bowes, who is a man of a great deal of capacity, is a member of the Organization Committee of the Republican League.

Now this Grand Jury has issued a report on the Mayor's office which is nothing more nor less than a political document, and it is more than evident that the Grand Jury has been used to further the efforts of the Republican politicians to put a Republican in the Mayor's chair in place of the Union Labor incumbent. That is a bad sort of business. If the Grand Jury can be used as a political instrument to attack Mayor Schmitz, another Grand Jury might be used next year to attack Governor Pardee, or some other candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. This Grand Jury, or some other, might be used not only to pull down one candidate, but to bolster up another, and Foreman Andrews is not free from a suspicion of using the Grand Jury for the purpose of boosting himself into the Mayor's chair.

The Grand Jury has been trying for a long time to find some official act of the Mayor on which it could indict him for malfeasance in office. Next to the indictment of Ruef, the dearest wish in the hearts of the majority of the Grand Jurymen is an indictment of the Mayor. But with all the inquiring into the acts of Schmitz nothing has been found on which a criminal complaint could be issued against him. That he is an instrument in the hands of Ruef goes without saying, and he must know that a great deal of rascality is prospering in San Francisco during his administration. There are a great many of us who would very much like to see some other man in the Mayor's chair; but that does not necessarily make us stand for an action as outrageous as that of the Grand Jury in issuing its report on the Mayor's acts.

Evidently the jury thought it would be able to charge the Mayor with some offense, because in the copies given with a ready and willing hand to the press of the city, the report began with an announcement that the Grand Jury accused the Mayor of non-feasance in office and neglect of duty. But after that the two lines of accusation were scratched out and the report simply went on to show that the Mayor had been derelict in his duty in some rather unimportant details. The fact that this partial report was given out at this time is proof enough that it was intended as a political document, calculated to influence the vote at the primaries. For the Grand Jury is going to make at some time a complete report of all of its doings, criticising or commending the different departments of the city government and the different officeholders. But it came out now with the attack on the Mayor solely and simply in the hope that the report would prevent Abe Ruef from capturing control of the Republican Conventions at the August primaries and that after those primaries the people would be influenced against again voting for Mayor Schmitz.

The neglect charged against the Mayor is of so little general interest and of such small consequence that the report looks as small and mean and spiteful as any of the acts of Schmitz and Ruef complained of by the Republican League. If that was all the Grand Jury could find against Mayor Schmitz, a Grand Jury probably could have found quite as much against the administration of Phelan at any time during that gentleman's incumbency, and we are beginning to consider Phelan's administration a very good one when considered from an executive point of view. I am inclined to believe that if the Grand Jury had been really able it could have found a great deal more to complain of against Mayor Schmitz than it did find. And when it found so little it would only have been fair and decent to have put its findings in a more gentlemanly form. In its present form the report is querulous and petty and ill-tempered, and the use of such a report in such a bald political way is nothing short of an outrage. If Schmitz only had a little more to commend him, this action of the Grand Jury would swing to his support the votes of many men who admire justice and fair dealing and abhor the thought that a Grand Jury, constituted to conserve the rights of all the citizens, should prostitute its powers to the base uses of partisan politics.

But from what I have shown you, you can very plainly see that extremes both sides are prepared to go, and the readers of THE TRIBUNE need not be at all surprised if the forthcoming election should result in tragedies such as those that occurred during the fierce fighting of the times of Killoch.

There is no longer any doubt that the great bulk of the laboring men are going to be with Schmitz for Mayor this time. The effort to cause a split in the Union Labor ranks has not met with much success. Schmitz very easily captured the only open meeting that the opposition has dared to hold. There is not very much to that opposition except the money furnished through the Republican League to politicians like Tim Sullivan in the effort to make so much trouble for Ruef in the Union Labor Party that that schemer will have no votes to spare to throw in at the Republican primaries. Sullivan is the head and front of the movement to get up separate labor tickets at the primaries, and he is a hack politician who has been in rough politics for a great many years; and he undoubtedly is now in the employ of the Republicans.

The heavy registration in this city should presage a triumph for the League over Ruef at the forthcoming primaries. These big registrations indicate that the general body of the citizens is taking an interest in practical politics and that a large number of those citizens will take pains to vote at the primaries. When there is a large vote at the primaries the machine politicians are always snowed under; and though in this instance there are machine politicians on both sides, it is Ruef who has the largest following in the element known as the "push" and his opponents undoubtedly have the backing of a majority of the voters who rarely go to the polling booth on a primary election day. So I should say that Ruef would be very much in the minority in the Republican convention.

No progress has been made toward securing the candidate who is to oppose Schmitz. It looks very much as if the main contest in the convention would be a fight for its control between Postmaster Arthur Fisk and Phil Crimmins. This, of course, is predicted on the supposition that Ruef will not carry more than two or three of the districts. At present it looks as if Crimmins would be stronger than any other one boss, but Fisk may be able to make combinations that would make him more powerful though he might not be able to control the convention. In a struggle between Crimmins and Fisk Ruef might hold the balance of power, and really win a victory even though defeated at the primaries.

It is not likely that we will have any definite determination on who the Republican candidate is to be until after the primaries, when it can be ascertained which of the bosses is to control the largest number of delegates. By that time also it will be apparent to everybody that the earnest reformers have been used as a cat's paw by the practical politicians, who have let the reformers do the work of getting the voters on the register and paying the preliminary expenses of the campaign, and who then will take the convention and do with it whatever they please without any regard to the reformers' wishes.

On Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock a banquet will be given at the Hotel St. Francis. The Nurses' Journal of the Pacific Coast will have the honor of entertaining Miss Palmer of New York, editor of the American Journal of Nursing. It is expected that several of the prominent nurses from the Eastern States, who are coming to the coast to attend the Portland conference, will be present.

A program has been arranged to be given by the members of the association. Dr. Helen Parker Criswell will be toastmistress.

The following toasts will be responded to by members of the association: "Our Guests," Miss Mary Du Boe; "California," Miss Genevieve Cooke; "Remarks," Miss Palmer; "The California State Nurses' Association," Miss Godes Doster; "Our Editor," Miss Theresa Darles McCarthy; "The Nurses of the Future," Miss Katherine Fitch; "Our County Associations," a Los Angeles delegate; "The Nurse in Settlement Work," Miss Octavia Briggs.

This is the first time in the history of California that nurses from all parts of the State will be gathered together to discuss the needs and aims of the profession. No nurse who wishes to keep abreast of the times can afford to miss these meetings.

The discussions will broaden one's point of view, the clinics and demonstrations teach new methods and give one new ideas, and at the banquet one may meet old friends and make some new ones while enjoying a happy and profitable evening.

AUTO BICYCLISTS BARRED

TOWN TRUSTEES OF HAYWARDS TAKE ACTION AGAINST THEIR USE.

LIVERMORE, July 22.—The motor cyclists of this place will be compelled in the future to either pedal their machines or walk, as the Town Trustees have passed an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to use the motive power to run one of these two-wheeled vehicles within the corporate limits. This will work a hardship on the local enthusiasts in this form of sport, as it is nearly a mile from the center of town to the outside limits, riders having to pedal the whole distance before using the power.

In addition, a ruling was made in regard to the speed limit of automobiles, which shall not exceed ten miles an hour. Considerable comment is caused by this ruling in regard to motor cycles, as there are a great number in use here, the order making them practically useless.

The outfit of E. E. and A. L. Stone Company, consisting of fifty horses, a dozen wagons, etc., arrived in town this week to begin the work of building the last nine miles of the mines road, beyond the county line, for which they received the contract from the American Magnesian Company.

DISTRICTS LAPSE.

Several of the outside school districts were this week suspended by Superintendent of Schools Crawford, to await the action of the Board of Education as a whole. The suspended districts are Highland, Lacosta and Midway, the attendance having fallen below the average required by law, which is a minimum of five days.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Paul Goldsmith of Oakland was in town Wednesday renewing old acquaintances. J. J. Dougherty is spending a month's vacation at Adams Springs.

Miss Carrie Van Horn is visiting friends in Stockton.

Miss Hanna Christensen of Palo Alto is visiting at the home of her uncle, Wade Hansen.

Miss Mayme Aylward of San Francisco is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Aylward.

Misses Olive Beck and Amelia Block have returned after a two-weeks' visit at Santa Cruz.

Mrs. M. H. Craile is spending a two-weeks' vacation at Adams Springs.

BIG HALL FINISHED

College Building to be Ready When Needed.

BERKELEY, July 22.—Despite recent reports to the contrary, the University authorities now declare that the magnificent new building on the University campus known as California Hall will be ready for occupation in August, when the new college year begins. The University authorities today authorized the statement that the entire first floor of the building will be available for the use of students and University officials on August 17, the date of the opening of college for the years 1905-06.

A big force of workmen is now engaged in putting the finishing touches to the building, which to outward appearances is complete. Carpenters are arranging doors and minor appointments, and soon the furniture will be installed for each office on the first floor. The second story is not to be completed until September.

California Hall has cost the State $250,000, the money having been appropriated by the State Legislature two years ago. It is declared by experts to be perhaps the best building in California in the matter of fire-proof construction, features having been arranged after the great Baltimore fire, that experience in that fire showed are essential as proof against destruction by fire. The hall will be the administration building on the campus, a large part of the second floor having been arranged for the use of administration officials.

On the first floor will be class rooms of ordinary size and a larger class room, unique in form, capable of seating 500 students and built in amphitheater fashion. Offices for various professors are also on this floor. Professor George Edwards, advised to the student body, will have quarters in the building.

The architect's work has been performed by Professor John Calen Howard, his charges being included in the salary of $10,000 a year which he is paid. The building has cost $250,000, exclusive of architect's fees.

OLD MOTHER NATURE, M. D.

(From the Saturday Evening Post.)

After careful study the New York Health Department announces that the most efficient remedy in cases of "spotted fever" is fresh air. It is curious to note the slow steady progress of the medical profession toward reluctant belief in natural remedies. There is some ground for hope that our doctors may some day approach the system of the Chinese practitioners. In China, as you may recall, the doctor is paid as long as his client is well; when the client becomes a patient the day he stops and is not resumed until he is well again.

Doctor ought to be prevented, not cured; advocates of fresh air and simple and regular sleep and exercise, not of drugs and incantations.

There is nothing so painful as some man's efforts to be strong.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY TO APPEAR TONIGHT

Miss Susan B. Anthony, famous throughout the world for her championing of the rights of women, and Rev. Anna H. Shaw will be the attractions at the Unitarian Church tonight. The presence of these two distinguished women will, no doubt, bring out a large audience. The meetings will be free and all are welcome.

A WEEK OF FLITTINGS.

There never was a summer when there was so much going and coming, for instead of taking a fortnight, and calling it "spending the summer," we now take three or four trips of a fortnight each, coming home between times for a supply of fresh garments, since country laundries are so notoriously bad, our own being none too good, Heaven knows. Three months is not considered an extraordinary vacation nowadays, and men take so much better care of themselves than they used to do that three months is not unusual for professional men if they can afford the loss of time. It is a good thing that men have at last learned that at the present pace of living and working more time for recreation is absolutely necessary and those men who wish to live with their families instead of having the aforesaid families traveling abroad on the money into which the father's brains and blood were coined, are the very men who are taking better care of themselves than they did formerly.

MADE AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

I hear that Dr. Herbert Moffitt's address at the Portland meeting of medics was one of the most interesting given. Dr. Moffitt is clever and very successful in his line, which is that of a diagnostician, or consulting physician. Mrs. Moffitt did not accompany her husband on this trip, but will go later to Tahoe.

A CLASS REUNION.

This is the time for class reunions, but it is safe to say that none will equal the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Harvard class of 1880, which contained President Roosevelt among its members. Members of the class gathered at Cambridge from all over the United States until there was very nearly a full representation. Then the President gave to his old classmates a heart to heart talk which was most remarkable. He took them into the secrets of the Government and talked as a President of these United States is said never to have talked before to unofficial hearers. Cordons of guards were thrown about the building in which the class supper was given, and another row of guards was stationed about the room in which the dinner was served. These were to prevent the entrance of newspaper reporters, for however highly we may regard the liberty of the press, free speech would, of course, have been impossible if the confidences were to be printed, however discreetly. My what a "scoop" the report of those proceedings would have made! There are two Harvard '80 men in San Francisco, Mr. Vanderlyn Stow and Mr. Fairfax Wheeler. Mr. Wheeler went on for the quadri-centennial, but Mr. Stow was detained at home by a strike.

THE WHEELERS TO GO NORTH.

Now that the Taft party has come and gone, President and Mrs. Wheeler of the University of California, will resume their interrupted vacation. The first part of it will be spent as the guest of the Charles Wheelers at their home on the beautiful McCloud River, and later they will be the guests of Mrs. Hearst, also on the McCloud. Mrs. Hearst's home on California's most beautiful and interesting stream is in the form of a mediaeval castle with winding stairways and tiny windows. Professor Maybeck was the architect. It is very cool where the Wheelers and Hearst homes are located, a cool breeze always blowing from snowy Shasta. The Country Club House, which was located near these two residences, and which was recently burned, is to be rebuilt immediately. This club house has already cost its members a pretty penny, as the first thing constructed was a road which cost some twenty thousand dollars.

DR. AND MRS. GRIGSBY IN GOLDFIELDS.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Grigsby, who spent the winter at the Palace Hotel, after having spent the months since their marriage in Alaska, are now in Goldfields, where Dr. Grigsby will practice and have a hospital similar to the one which he conducted so successfully in Alaska. Mrs. Grigsby was, before her marriage, Miss Helen Richardson, well known in the University of California, where she took a mat-ematological course, and also in Alameda, where she was a most successful high school teacher. She is a very bright and charming young woman, while Dr. Grigsby is a proficient and successful physician.

A CHANGE FOR COL. EDWARDS.

Colonel George C. Edwards, for so long a successful teacher of Freshman mathematics in the University of California, has been made a sort of student adviser after the fashion of the Eastern colleges, where some professor or instructor is specially detailed to look after the students and to advise them as to their courses, their athletics and their amusements. Col. Edwards is particularly well fitted for this post, for he has always been most popular with the students, and, besides, was a student of the University of California himself. He is a man of judgment and experience, who has always been prominent and successful in the work of the committee on student affairs. The boys have always regarded him as a fatherly confidant, and I do not doubt that he will handle the affairs of his new billet most successfully.

IN LOS ANGELES.

Mr. Richard Hotelling, who, since his return from the East, has spent much of his time camping on the Russian River, has gone to Los Angeles. He will return shortly.

MISS BENDER RETURNS.

Miss Margaret Bender, who has been in New York and Boston for the last twenty months, part of the time as the guest of relatives in New York, Mrs. Sloat Fassett being her aunt, and part of the time studying elocution at the Boston School of Oratory, has returned to her home in San Francisco and is being eagerly welcomed by her many friends. Since her return she has been the guest of Mrs. Emory Winship at Ross Valley. Miss Cherry Bender, who has been in, has spent thirteen months in Santa Barbara, and San Diego, where she has been sleeping out of doors at night and has been seeking to regain her strength. She is now about to return to San Francisco, and the family will probably go to some warmer place for the summer. The Misses Bender are cultivated and charming women and both are very popular. They will be made much of this winter.

THE WHEELERS IN SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

Mrs. William F. Wheeler is spending the summer and Mr. Wheeler is spending a month in Alpine, San Diego county, where they bought a ranch and where the climate agrees unusually well with Mrs. Wheeler's health.

RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS.

Dr. and Mrs. Philip King Brown are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, the third child in the family, but the first girl. The two elder children are handsome boys and may be seen any fine day going about the streets of San Francisco or Santa Barbara bare-headed, their heads as blonde as possible, and their faces as brown as berries.

SPENDING SUMMER AT LOS GATOS.

Miss Mary Dunham is spending the summer at her own home near Los Gatos.

THE CHARLES CROCKERS NOT ABROAD.

Another man detained at home by a strike is Charles Crocker, who was called home from Tahoe by a printer's strike, and has not yet left for his wedding trip around the world.

AT GLEN ALPINE.

The S. W. Hollidays and Mr. and Mrs. Burke Holliday and their children are at Glen Alpine for a stay of several weeks.

MRS. GILMAN IN OAKLAND.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, formerly Charlotte Perkins Stetson, is a guest of Oakland friends. She spoke last Sunday evening in San Francisco, and will speak several times more before leaving California. A reception was given in honor of Miss Anthony and Miss Shaw at the Sequoia Hotel in San Francisco on Friday afternoon of this week. These two prominent suffragists will speak in Oakland this evening.

RECORD FOR ENGAGEMENTS.

This has been a record year for engagement announcements and weddings. Really after we have given our wedding gifts of the autumn, it will take great management to achieve a winter wardrobe. But "the bride must have her plenishing," as the old saying goes, and if she is a dear friend we must help to give it to her. September and October show many wedding dates. One of the early September weddings will be that of Mr. Murray Orrick and Miss Ada Kenna. It is to be a home wedding at the Kenna home in East Oakland. The Kenna home is one of the most picturesque old homes of East Oakland and has been the scene of such hospitality in the past, when all the children were at home. Miss Ada Kenna is the only one of the children remaining in the old home. She has been a guest of the Orricks this summer at their country home "Vista del Valle" at Los Gatos.

SOCIAL NEWS of the WEEK

The Irving Burrells have sold their home on the hill and are for the present at the Kenna home. They intend to build a new home in the future.

The Kenna wedding will include for the most part relatives and very dear friends. The family connection is a large one as the Kennas have many relatives and Murray Orrick is a nephew of the late Irving Scott.

WEDDING OF HIRAM HALL

The wedding of Hiram Hall and Miss Bessie Haven is set also for September and will take place in the artistic little church of the Advent that has been the scene of so many fascinating weddings.

The bride's friends are planning many compliments for her when people shall have returned to town.

Miss Katherine Brown is to give a linen shower which will be quite an acceptable way of entertaining since the young people are to begin home keeping so soon. The wedding party is apt to represent a lovely picture since the bride and her attendants are all perfectly stunning girls. They are all tall and carry themselves remarkably well. The bride is to be groomed in white mesaline silk and her attendants are to be in gowns showing pink color tones. It bids fair to be a most effective wedding. Meantime the charming little home in East Oakland is going up apace and the bride is likely to receive gifts enough to completely furnish it.

ROY McCABE TO MARRY.

Another September wedding will be that of Mr. Roy McCabe and Miss Edith Gaskill. Mrs. McCabe and Miss Edith McCabe have spent the spring abroad in Southern Europe, and they returned to America only a short time ago. They have been recently at the Hotel Vendome.

The McCabe estate included a large ranch in Contra Costa county and the young people intend to make their home there, at least for some time.

ARTHUR KELLY TO TAKE A BRIDE.

The wedding of Mr. Arthur Kelly and Miss Charlotte Kelly is also set for September. The Kellys formerly lived on Madison street over here, but for some time now they have been in San Francisco.

They rented their home on Pacific avenue this winter, and they have been at the Hotel St. Francis.

Among the bridesmaids from this side of the bay will be Miss Muriel Kelly, a sister of the groom, and Miss Kitty Kutz.

The bridesmaids are to wear exquisite gowns of white point d'esprit.

DR. ALDERSON TO WED.

The wedding of Dr. Alderson and Miss Cordelia Bishop is also set for September, and among the pretty bridesmaids will be Miss Anita Oliver.

One hears that the wedding may possibly take place at the Bishop's country home in Ben Lomond, where the Bishops have spent a great part of the summer, and where Dr. Alderson has often been their guest.

The Bishops are among those who have discovered the charm of the Santa Cruz mountains in the winter. They go down often for the week end, and their cottage, with an immense fire in the big fire place is the picture of cheerfulness. We will probably follow out here before long, the custom of the East in keeping country homes open all winter.

Of course in England, the country home is the real home of the family, and the town house is only open a few weeks of the season.

If the Alderson-Bishop wedding takes place at Ben Lomond, it will be an exceedingly picturesque affair.

MISS STERETT A BRIDE.

And apropos of weddings, the leading wedding of the week was that of Miss Ella Sterett and Mr. Edwin Barbour, which took place on Wednesday evening at the Wheaton home on Lake street.

Miss Sterett is the niece of Mrs. George Wheaton and of Mr. William Sterett of San Francisco, both of whom have always been her special guardians, and very fond of her, since she lost her parents when she was a very young child.

Miss Sterett is a very charming girl and a most industrious one. She is an exceedingly gifted needle-woman, and she has much artistic talent. She spent many months in the art department of the University of California.

Mr. Barbour recently came here from Cambridge, Massachusetts, and he is a young business man who has already achieved success, and has made many friends.

Mrs. Wheaton personally planned every detail of her niece's wedding, and the artistic Wheaton home has never looked more lovely.

The scheme of decoration was in tones of white and green, the wedding effect heightened here and there with wedding bells.

In the large bay window of the drawing room a wedding bower of bamboo was fashioned, and under a large wedding bell the ceremony was performed.

About fifty guests were present, including the many relatives of the bride and groom. The Wheaton connection is a large one, and just the relatives make up a large wedding party.

Mrs. Edson Adams and her little daughters arrived from Tahoe the day of the wedding, and she was a charming matron of honor for her cousin.

The little Adams children made fascinating pictures, and Elizabeth and Ellita Adams were among the bride's attendants.

Shortly after eight o'clock, the stringed orchestra sounded the notes of Lohengrin's Wedding March, and the wedding party appeared.

Rev. Mr. Gee, Mr. Barbour and his best man, awaited the bride in the drawing room, and shortly afterwards Elizabeth and Ellita Adams led the way for the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Jackson, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Edson Adams.

Rev. Mr. Gee performed the ceremony after the strict Episcopal ritual. Rev. Charles R. Brown was to have been present, but business called him East last week.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. William Sterett, of San Francisco, and after the ceremony there was an informal reception which was followed by a wedding supper.

The bride's gown was of the dainty soft mesaline silk, so greatly used for bride's gowns this year. The corsage was finished with a yoke of rare rose point lace, one of Mrs. Wheaton's lace treasures. The veil was fastened with orange blossoms, and the bride's bouquet was of lilies of the valley.

Elizabeth and Ellita Adams were in dainty frocks of white lace and each one carried a wreath of lovely pink blossoms. Elizabeth Adams is named for the mother, and Ellita for Mrs. Wheaton. They love Mrs. Wheaton dearly, and they made a pretty picture at the wedding with their beautiful and young looking grandmother.

Mrs. Wheaton was superb in a gown of white lace with diamond ornaments, and Mrs. Edson Adams was superb in a stunning gown of pompadour silk, with which she carried a large shower bouquet of ferns.

Miss Margaret Jackson's gown was of pink mousseline de sole, and she carried a large bouquet of pink bridesmaid roses.

Mrs. George S. Wheaton was one of the most attractive of the wedding guests and one of the most beautifully gowned. Her dress was of pale pink color tones, the skirt and corsage both superbly trimmed in lace.

Other pretty gowns were those of Miss Florine Brown, Mrs. Thomas Prather, Mrs. Harrison Clay, and Mrs. Harry East Miller.

The bride and groom are to begin housekeeping in a quaint old fashioned way. Really it must be said of the modern young bride that the boarding house does not much appeal to her. She wants to try her experiments in home keeping in her own little home, and many of the brides of today plan to do the housework necessary for two.

So the wedding gifts for Mr. Barbour and Miss Sterett all went towards furnishing the dainty little new home on Moss avenue. And it is furnished completely, they have not a thing to buy.

Mr. Sterett recently built a new country home near Cloverdale, and the young people have gone there, and they will return on Monday to their own little home, which Mrs. Wheaton and Mr. Barbour will have in readiness for them.

Mrs. Wheaton has provided most generously for her niece in every way. And in addition to many gifts she has given her beautiful silver.

Mrs. Edson Adams' gifts to her cousin were all exceedingly handsome things for the table, all in fine silver. Such lovely dishes as one saw among the wedding gifts! A superb set came from Mrs. Thomas Williams, and Mrs. Steele sent one of the most beautiful lamps to be found anywhere.

Some members of St. John's Church gave a kitchen shower, and lo, the little kitchen looks up at one, a perfect dream in all its new shining things. It will just be a delight to preside over that kitchen. The dining room is to be all in weathered oak—table, chairs, sideboard—all to match, all the gifts of friends.

Mr. Sterett's gifts to his niece were two gorgeous rugs, each one nearly covering a room, and the pretty new drawing room will be bright with lovely bric-a-brac and pictures, and it will be very artistic with the many gifts of friends.

Mrs. Edwin Barbour will have a day at home on which to welcome her friends to one of the exquisitely appointed little new homes of the summer.

VISITING IN OAKLAND.

Miss E. C. Percival of Chicago is visiting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Butler, on Webster street. Miss Percival is a niece of Mr. Butler.

Mrs. Hattie P. Armstrong, of Los Angeles, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Carson, on Twenty-second street.

MISS PERKINS GAVE ALARM.

Much has been said in the newspapers about the bravery of Miss Mac Perkins in turning in a fire alarm and assisting in saving property at a fire. Miss Perkins is the charming daughter of Senator Perkins. I have heard her highly praised for her bravery at the fire, and she certainly deserves a great deal of credit. She was entitled to all the kind things said about her.

WEDDING OF INTEREST IN STOCKTON.

A wedding of great interest in Stockton, San Francisco, and Oakland is that of Mr. Arthur Duncan and Miss Genevieve Peters of Stockton. Mr. Duncan is one of the young business men of San Francisco who is very well known over here. He was a member of the Friday Night Club last winter, and was a very welcome guest in many prominent homes.

He entertained very hospitably at the Country Club.

Miss Genevieve Peters comes from a well known and very prominent family of Stockton. For years her family have been among the very wealthy citizens of San Joaquin county.

From Stockton have come many prominent people to join the smart set of San Francisco, notably the Sperryes, and Mrs. Will Crocker.

Mr. Duncan is building a very artistic little home at Piedmont to keep his bride, and they bid fair to reap up their share of Oakland's social life.

GEORGE WHEATON HAS BEEN ILL.

Mr. George S. Wheaton was among the guests at his cousin's wedding. Mr. Wheaton was desperately ill this summer and he has been away for a month. He is much better, quite himself again, and was one of the bright guests at the wedding.

One hears that charming little Baby Ida Bell Wheaton is one of the prettiest of all the Lakeside children, and bids fair to be a very beautiful girl.

Among the guests at the Sterett-Barbour wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Palmer and Miss Bessie Palmer. Miss Palmer looks exceedingly well and she has brought back some very pretty gowns from abroad.

BELLS ARE HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Traylor Bell returned this week from a trip to the north, including the Portland Exposition. Mr. and Mrs. Traylor Bell, formerly Miss Helen Chase, have taken the Stirling cottage Californian, and so well known here, paragraphs about her are of interest. One of the latest costumes reflects Paris phases of fashion.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr. luncheon with Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell, wore a trailing robe of finest pale yellow batiste sprinkled with dots a little less than a quarter of an inch across. The skirt had a deep hem above which was a straight insertion of cream-colored lace, then came a group of half-inch tucks, a dozen or more in number, with half-inch spaces between them, and above these another of the lace insertions. There was also a second and much narrower group of tucks. The bodice was pointed and tight at the waist line, but rather loose above the deep girdle, and was trimmed with lace and tucks. The elbow sleeves were rather small, shirred puffs with apricot-colored ribbons tied at the elbows and forming small bows at the back of the arms.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's French chapeau was small and high, tilted well over the forehead and up at the back and was an ecor straw trimmed with two curling quills in ecor and other light shades and having clusters of red and pink cherries at the back and left side, where the turned-up brim had more than a suggestion of a fluted effect.

Mrs. John Mackay recently entertained six hundred of the women journalists of London at one of the most elaborate functions of the year.

Miss Maxine Elliott is a guest at one of the most pretentious country homes of England, and Ethel Barrymore is a great favorite with the smart set of London.

She was one of the belles of the ball given by the Duchess of Sutherland last week.

Among those presented at the last drawing-room of the Queen was Mrs. Le Breton from California. Mrs. Le Breton has many friends on this coast, especially in San Francisco and Mare Island. She was formerly Miss Nopie MacDougal, the charming daughter of Admiral MacDougal.

The London season is on in full cry, and many San Franciscans are lending it distinction.

One of the most fascinating women in the sets that are alive is Mrs. Mountenay Jephson, formerly stunning Anna Head, who wedded one of the heroes of the late Sir Henry M. Stanley's expedition into darkest Africa—and incidentally a most persistent lover.

The late Mr. Head was very bitterly opposed to the marriage, and as Anna Head was an only daughter and devoted to her father, she trusted to time to change his mind.

But the years wore on, and he was unchanged, and it was only on his deathbed that permission for the marriage was given.

Cablegrams were sent to and from England, and the marriage was one of the sensations of the San Francisco smart set, for the Heads are very wealthy, and also a family of much influence.

Mrs. Head has been spending the spring months with her daughter, Mrs. Jephson.

He Jephsons are occupying a fine house in Calegon Square, which, during the season just opened will be gay with clever and interesting people.

When Mrs. Head returns to San Francisco she will be swamped by the friends of her charming daughter, eager for a personal message from their well-beloved friend.

Among other notable people in London this season are Mr. Orrin Peck, Mrs. Peck, Miss Janet Peck, Mrs. Thorburn Cropper, Miss Anna Frances Briggs.

MRS. MONTELL TAYLOR HAS RETURNED.

Mrs. Montell Taylor and little Master Taylor returned this week from a month's stay at Highland Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. McClure Gregory have come from the mines and are to have a vacation here of some weeks. They have been at Rowdennan for a brief visit with Mrs. Lohse and Miss Clarisse Lohse, and they are now guests at the Gregory ranch. Mrs. Gregory was formerly pretty and fascinating Anita Lohse.

Mrs. Lohse and Miss Clarisse Lohse are planning a few weeks' visit to Carmel-by-the-Sea.

ENJOYING THEIR SUMMER.

The Ben Lomond and Brookdale people are enjoying their summer to the utmost. Hotel Rowdennan continues to represent many prominent people on its guest list.

Mrs. J. Wilson Shields and her children are spending a month there, and Doctor Shields wrote a play for the Fourth of July.

The "dramatis personae" of the play were represented by Miss Kitty Kutz, Miss Clarisse Lohse and others of the summer guests.

Doctor Shields is very clever in a literary way, and can write a play "while you wait."

Mrs. John Valentine, senior, has been very ill since coming from the East, and she is spending a month at Rowdennan, by way of getting back her usual strength.

Mrs. George Kutz and Miss Kitty Kutz returned this week from Rowdennan, and Miss Noelle De Golla has also returned from Ben Lomond where she was the guest of Miss Evelyn Husey and of the Edgar Bishops.

The colony at Brookdale has never had so pleasant a summer. On the little island near Brookdale a large tea was given on Thursday in aid of the church. Everybody went, and everybody had a good time.

Mrs. Richard Lyman is to give a tea on Friday of this week, at her picturesque bungalow home at Brookdale.

The invitations are very unique and original, and in the receiving party will be Mrs. Arthur Holland and Miss Anita Thomson, who is Mrs. Holland's guest this week. Mrs. Holland's country home is one of the most picturesque to be found in the Santa Cruz mountains.

It is built on the hillside, in the midst of a splendid grove of trees, below it a brook, rippling by day and night. It reminds one of Whittier's brook in "Snowbound."

"The music of whose liquid lip Had been to me companionship."

The house is in bungalow effect, and a wide veranda completely surrounds it, a part of the veranda serving for an out-door dining room. The trees have all been preserved, and extend quite through the veranda, making the most fascinating of mountain retreats.

A great living room is immensely picturesque, with a large fireplace in which are burned big logs when the weather is at all cold.

The lovely country home was planned entirely by Mrs. Holland, and one hears many compliments from those who have seen, this ideal little bungalow.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy Belden are still at Rowdennan, and they expect to spend most of the summer there.

Pelton is not far from Rowdennan, and Miss Charlotte Hall often brings her guests to Ben Lomond. This week she is entertaining Miss Olga Hochstein, of San Francisco.

The Russells are going to Ben Lomond the latter part of July, and Miss Gertrude Russell returns soon from the Drapers' country home in Oregon, "Buckeye Lodge," where she has been the guest of Miss Elsa Draper.

Mrs. High and her family are also at Brookdale this year. Last season the Highs so greatly enjoyed the Santa Cruz mountains that they bought a picturesque little cottage to serve as a country home for them each season.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

One of the pretty home weddings of the week was that of Miss Alice Bravard and Mr. E. A. Major, which took place at the bride's home on Myrtle street. Only the relatives and most intimate friends were invited to the wedding, which was very informal, but with all the details so perfectly planned that it was both a dainty and an artistic wedding.

The color scheme was in pink, worked out with pink carnations and pink roses. An elaborate wedding supper was a feature of the occasion, a special menu being prepared at Hallahan's, and served with the usual care, and with the success characteristic of the well known establishment.

MISS ISAACS IN LONDON.

Miss Florence Hanna and Miss Lillian Isaacs arrived in London this week after an exceedingly pleasant trip across the Atlantic. Miss Hanna is of the High School faculty and with Miss Lillian Isaacs, he is to spend a year abroad.

They are to visit the leading cities in Europe, spending most of their time however, in Germany and France. Miss Hanna wishes to go on with her study of German, and Miss Isaacs is a good French scholar, and she has done exceedingly good work along art lines.

Mr. and Mrs. John Isaacs are going to Tahoe, where they hope to spend some pleasant vacation days this summer.

A JOLLY OUTING.

Miss Gertrude Russell is enjoying a delightful stay at the Draper country home in Oregon, and is at present on a hunting trip through the mountains with a jolly party composed of Col. Draper, Miss Elsa Draper, Morgan Draper and Jerome Landfield.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wold (Miss Ruth Bruce) are enjoying a honeymoon in the South and on their return will make their home in this city.

Miss Lucy Speetzer is receiving recognition on account of her rare soprano voice, and sings often at social affairs.

Mrs. Frank Woodward has enjoyed a delightful visit with friends in Chico. Miss Ethel Allen is a charming and popular young visitor who has been enjoying brief visits with friends in this city.

Miss Hilda Perfumo, of Alameda, is entertaining informally this summer at her home.

AT THE CLAY HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Tuggle Clay and little Master Clay are at Level Lea, the Fruitvale home of the Clays, and they are to spend the summer there.

Mrs. Clay is devoted to her little grandson, who is in every way, a fine boy. Her other little grandson, Harnden Crawford, has his home quite on the other side of the continent, so visits to the family home are a long time apart.

The Barrys and Clays are all extremely fond of Baby Philip Clay, so he bids fair to have a good time among his many relatives.

METCALFS WITH RELATIVES.

The Metcalfs are home again, and they hope to spend six weeks quietly with relatives and old friends.

Miss Nellie Chabot, who spent the winter with the Metcalfs at their hotel in Washington, came with them as far as Portland. Miss Chabot was in mourning while in Washington, so she did not see all the social life which might have been possible as a protegee of Mrs. Metcalf.

Miss Chabot has a superb voice, and as she loves music, it has been beautifully cultivated. She was devoted to her step-mother, the late Mrs. Chabot, and as the latter was ill a great deal, during late years, her daughter did not take much interest in social affairs.

Miss Nellie Chabot is one of the rich heiresses of the coast. She is very attractive, and she dresses beautifully. It was really refreshing not to have a contest over the large estate left by the late Mrs. Chabot. It was all left to her relatives, very little of it to her step-daughter, with whom she had lived for so many years. In the will it was expressly stated that the small amount left her was at her own request. Miss Chabot sent for her step-mother's brothers, who were here for the funeral, and they received most of their sister's fortune. Miss Chabot stated simply that she had enough of her own, and so the fortune went to those who probably needed it more. Such a state of things is very unusual in this day and generation, when the national game seems to be the great big game of "grab."

The big home of the Chabots on Lake Merritt has been closed all winter, and everyone is wondering if it will be re-opened, now that Miss Chabot is coming home.

Secretary and Mrs. Metcalf are with Mrs. Nicholson, at the family home on Linden street. Both of them need the rest and quiet possible here in mid-summer days. If you do not go away, you at least live quietly, and social activities are at a stand still. Life in many ways is very strenuous in Washington, and it is the first "cabinets season" for both Secretary and Mrs. Metcalf. All their friends would like to entertain them, but that will be hardly possible this summer, for a round of gaiety would not be at all a good preparation for the real hard work of the coming winter.

Paymaster Nicholson is coming home to meet Secretary and Mrs. Metcalf, so there will be a family reunion at the home on Linden street. Mrs. Nicholson is a charming, type of the sweet, cultured, and well bred Southern woman, and Mrs. Metcalf looks very like her pretty mother.

HAVE GONE TO SANTA CRUZ.

The Misses Dunn have gone this week to Santa Cruz and are to spend some time at the Sea Beach hotel.

HAVE DONE GOOD WORK.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is doing admirable work this summer, under the leadership of Senator William C. Ralston, who has been made the president of the society.

The Ralstons are spending the summer at their Fruitvale home, and they are taking the greatest interest in everything that pertains to the society. There are finely equipped offices, is the new Union Savings Bank, where the business of the society is carried on.

Dr. Carpenter is the veterinarian and general executive officer.

William Keith, the noted artist, has given one of his valuable pictures to the society, and it is to be raffled, the chances being placed at ten dollars apiece.

The officers of the society are Senator W. C. Ralston, Mrs. Frank Soule, Mrs. E. V. Thomas, Mrs. William C. Ralston. The directors of the society are William C. Ralston, Mrs. Frank Soule, Mrs. William Keith, Mrs. Arthur Holland, Mrs. A. Macartney, Mrs. Allen Clay, Mrs. T. C. Jenkins, Dr. Car-

In Stage Land

this week entitled "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree." Mr. Dougherty receives quite an ovation at each performance, and he has already installed himself a favorite with the Novelty patrons.

The Patricollas are a new team that just came from the East. They are musical and dancing comedians, and play on several instruments. They have made a decided hit.

The Zola Sisters are petite singing and dancing comedienne, and have won favor with the audience with their enchanting singing and dancing. The Marvellous Russell, the athletic wonder, is certainly a marvel in his line. His feats of strength certainly are astonishing, and his muscular poses are remarkable.

Petronella D'Arville, violin virtuoso, delights the audience with her selections, which are applauded at each performance.

The moving pictures are interesting and up to date, showing latest films.

SENSATIONS OF THE BELL

The audiences at the popular Bell theater this week were very large. The program in its entirety was an exceptionally strong one, including some of the best acts in vaudeville. One act in particular, billed as "Niagara, the dare-devil," was sensational to the extreme. It was considered by show men as one of the greatest feature acts today in vaudeville. Niagara closes his engagement at this theater Sunday night, so those who have not witnessed his thrilling performance have but a few days longer to avail themselves of the opportunity. The rest of the program includes clever Conkey, comedy club manipulator; the Earle Sisters, two clever misses, in songs and dances; Robert & De Mont, clever hand-to-hand balancing, in fact, this is one of the best teams of its kind that has performed in Oakland for some time. Mr. Wilson appears in pictured song entitled "Doubting"; Leon & Birdie Allen, sketch artists; Richard Burton, an illustrated actor and singer, who has been retained by special request of the management, has made a decided hit this week with the audience in the dramatic way in which he portrays a song entitled "Dreams." For next week the management promises another great bill including one of the greatest features ever appeared in the large Eastern vaudeville theaters, and is the only act of its kind in the world, "Ben Hur," the most beautiful and most realistic play ever produced. It received eighty-four presentations in twenty-four consecutive days in the city of Boston to an audience of over 40,000 people. This production will positively only be shown for one week in Oakland. Among the other head-liners will be mentioned Mulvey & Ward and their comedy sketch, entitled "The Crazy Kid and Daffy Soubrette." The Regaro Triophenomenal ring experts, also make their Pacific Coast appearance. Ed Christie, the odd character comedian; a new series of animated pictures, Bingham & Thornton, high class sketch artists, and several other big acts for the remarkable price must be taken into consideration. The matinees are as popular as ever. The ladies realizing that in this theater their children are well taken care of, and that they see nothing in the Bell that will be least offensive.

himself a great favorite by his clever impersonation of Gerald Holmes, David's brother. Next week, the first Pacific Coast production of Dora Thorne, a dramatization of the famous novel of the same title, will be given at this playhouse, commencing Monday night, and running the entire week, with the usual matinees Saturday and Sunday.

This novel has probably been more widely read by old and young lovers of romantic fiction than any other novel written within the last decade. It has had one of the most successful runs of any drama in the East this last season.

A special cast of Bishop's players will be cast in the different roles, including Frank Bacon, Elmer Booth, Orval Humphreys, Lloyd Ingraham, Maurice Stewart, Charles Inslee, Ethel Roberts, Margot Merriam and Margaret MacLynn. Ola Humphreys will make her first appearance at this playhouse Monday night, playing the title role of Dora Thorne.

NOVELTY THEATER. The show this week at the Novelty is par excellence. The performance is the best yet seen and the attendance has been large.

Every one on the bill this week has an established reputation, and have made a decided success. The patrons of the Novelty claim this week's show is far ahead of anything yet seen.

Howe & Edwards, comedy sketch artists, have made a decided hit with their musical comedy, and keeps the audience in roars of laughter the minute they appear on the stage. Their act is full of bright, original situations of a laughable nature, and their dialogue sparkles with wit and fun. Allen Dougherty, the phenomenal baritone, sings a beautiful illustrated song

Glenn's Yiddish Players are prospering at the Grand Opera House, and deservedly so. The organization contains actors of great versatility and genius, and the performances are clever, quaint and interesting. For today (Saturday) and tomorrow's matinees, "Kol Nidrey" will be presented, and tonight and tomorrow night the "Jewish Hamlet" will be the attraction. The programs for next week are arranged as follows: Monday night, "Jewish King Lear"; Tuesday night, "Gabriel"; Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, "The Jewish Vice Kings," which is described as even a more powerful play than "Kol Nidrey." Saturday night "Sulamith, Daughter of Jerusalem," will be presented, and a great attraction is announced for Sunday night in the Biblical play, "Joseph in Egypt."

For the Saturday and Sunday matinees, "The Jewish Priest" has been selected.

Madame Bertha Tanzman, a clever and popular actress, has been specially engaged and will be a valuable addition to the casts of the above mentioned plays.

TO PRESENT IBSEN'S "GHOSTS." "Ghosts," the famous psychological study of Henrik Ibsen, is to be given a special production by Belasco, May-er and Price, next week, with Harry Mestayer and a specially selected company in the cast.

Two presentations of "Ghosts" will be given at the California theater at the Saturday matinee, and night of July 23, and very large audiences are expected at the performances.

THE ALCAZAR. "The Heart of a Geisha," at the Alcazar, is a novelty, a sensation, and in every way a triumph for this artistic little theater. So great an impression has it created that its continuance for a second week became a foregone conclusion before the final fall of the curtain, on the first night. Colgate Baker's new romance of modern Japan takes an audience into a novel and fascinating mimic world. It is faithfully Oriental and aglow with light and picturesque coloring. It has been dramatic episodes, and moments of moving pathos that are accentuated by the gayety and frivolity of the revels at holiday fete and tea-house banquet. Its vital and ever tear-compelling theme is woman's self-sacrifice for the man who has aroused the one great love of her life. Whether the woman who suffers be a Zaza, a Sappho, a Camille or a little brown-skinned Geisha, her appeal to the sympathies is equally potent. Kōhamma San is a victim of racial conditions, social and moral, but she excites only compassion when she casts off her American lover, to save him from dishonor, and crazed by despair, she drowns herself in the moonlit waters of Yokohama Bay. Juliet Cross plays the Japanese heroine with alternating moods of coquetry, reckless gayety and exquisite tenderness.

With Callaghan's band engaged for the promenade concerts every Sunday and Wednesday, lovers of music who visit the park are assured of listening to the "harmonies of sweet sound" by a first class organization. The program tomorrow will be made up of selections from both grand and comic operas.

Wednesday evening the band will give a concert from 7:30 till 11. There will also be a number of solos by members.

Every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday there will be a social dance in the new and enlarged pavilion. The work on the pavilion was completed a few days ago, the building and floor being now one of the largest and best in California.

One of the features at Idora Park tomorrow will be a balloon ascension and parachute jump by Professor Hamilton. The balloon to be used is the one used by Mr. Hamilton when making the first flight with Professor Montgomery's ill-fated aeroplane, from which Daniel Maloney fell to his death a few days ago. In the free theater, Norman H. Stanley, who is considered one of the best baritones on the Coast, will sing a number of those songs that the people love. There will also be given three new series of moving pictures. The feature of having these performances in the theater free, which was introduced by Manager James Filling, has won the favor of all patrons of the park. Every performance is waited for anxiously, and at the termination there is only words of praise. The program is changed every week.

NATURE TELLS YOU As Many an Oakland Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are ailed, Nature tells you all about it. The urine is nature's calendar. Infection or too frequent action; Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills. Oakland people testify to this.

John N. Foy, 31 Jackson street, says: "For an indefinite period I have had a backache. When there was added to it trouble with the kidney secretions and irritation of the urine when I caught cold or happened to get my feet wet I knew in some way that my kidneys were either weakened or over-excited. When the last attack occurred I went to a drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills and commenced the treatment. It must have been a case of kidney trouble, for the backache stopped. Since then I have noticed a slight indication of aching in my back and trouble with the kidneys and I at once resorted to a dose or two of Doan's Kidney Pills. Up to date that ailment had not been in vain. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other."

FINDING ELIA'S GRAVE.

Hutton's "Literary Landmarks of London" was largely a labor of love, and was the result of years of hard work. Mr. Hutton gives this example of the difficulties that stood in his way: "Another Sunday afternoon I devoted to a pilgrimage to the grave of Charles Lamb at Edmonton. As usual, nobody at Edmonton knew anything. The churchyard is not a small one, and it is entirely filled. The sexton and the grave-digger and a few persons wandering about gave me no information. Most of them had never heard of Mr. Lamb; and I could not find the sacred spot. Naturally, I applied to the sexton, and as he had no vestry door after service, leaning on the arm of a pretty young woman, I approached him, raised my hat, and asked politely, if he could tell me where Charles and Mary Lamb were resting. Really he could not say. And forgetting the day, the place and his sacred office, cursed the sexton for his criminal ignorance."

"Great heavens," I said. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself. In your care have been placed the ashes of one of the greatest writers in the whole history of English letters. And you don't know where they are! They have made your churchyard and your parish distinguished all the world over. Have come some miles to visit Charles Lamb's grave, and the sexton of the church, don't know where it is. You ought to be terribly ashamed of yourself. And I turned upon my heel and left him standing there, speechless and dumfounded."

Half an hour after the above incident occurred, and while Hutton was groping around the graveyard in the twilight, the sexton came to him, hat in hand, apologetic most humbly for his ignorance, which he had corrected in the meantime, and conducted him to the grave of the immortal Elia.

REALISM OF A SORT.

"My Ownest Own Lovey Dovey," wrote the road-traveling madman, "my eyes are as blue as hotel cream, my hair is as yellow as the napkins, your teeth as white as the butter. Your cheeks and lips are as red as the face of the angry hotel clerk when you have asked him the second time in one day for stationery. VALUABLE STAMPS.

Two stamps were once put into an offertory box by a lady in Georgetown. They were 2-cent stamps, issued in British Guiana in 1880. The lady had come across an envelope among her papers bearing two of these stamps. The incumbent, Canon Jora, sold the envelope with the two stamps on it by auction, and it realized $1,000. The following year the same two stamps changed hands at $3,250. The new purchaser sold them for $3,800 to a German dealer, who sold them to a Russian nobleman for $5,000.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AN ERROR IN ENGLISH.

Even the greatest authors now and then make a little slip in his English. Thus Sir Walter Scott in his "Legend of Montrose" has this sentence: "But ere Montrose could almost see what happened, Allan Macaulay had rushed past him." The "almost" should come before "ere" in order to express the author's meaning.—St. Nicholas.

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

GREENWAY HESITATES

Here is a startling bit of news: Ned Greenway is in doubt as to whether he will give his subscription dance this year. What would the winter season be without the Greenway dance? Something must be done. The startling news of Mr. Greenway's indecision is authoritative, and therefore I hasten to acquaint society of its prospect. So far he has not given a good reason for considering the advisability of depriving society of its favorite dissipation. He says that his energy is limited, and that he has not recovered from the effects of last season's strenuous campaign. It has been suggested to me that he hopes to make society more keenly appreciative of the importance of his leadership by retiring temporarily, but the suggestion appeals not to me. I happen to know that he was very much worried last season over certain difficult questions that he was called upon to settle, and that he is somewhat fearful of a renewal of the unpleasantness. The questions involved the eligibility to membership of at least two dozen people, most of whom were weighed in the social scales and found too heavy for transportation up the frail ladder that hangs on the smart set rampart, a ladder that has suffered much wear and tear in the escalades of the past.

THE DEMAND FOR EXCLUSIVENESS

In the fullness of his amiable nature the veteran leader gave the much-prized countersign to two or three married couples, who, after getting in, were looked at askance by some of their predecessors of the elect. Indeed, they were made uncomfortable by the frigidity of the atmosphere and Greenway was pained when asked whether he had thrown down the bars. And now many of our society people who have only got over the threshold of the Holy of Holies are in fear and trembling lest the Czar should discontinue his dances, for they depend almost entirely on those functions for the little glimpses they are vouchsafed of swiftness in action. Two or three have daughters to exploit, and Ned's are the only dances where they may meet the dowagers who might entertain them. Those on the highest rung of the ladder are not all enthusiastic over the Friday Night Club, but a few are loyal to the old guard and wander in about midnight to show that they are still in the game, while others seem to enjoy the spectacle of the lesser lights getting acclimated, a spectacle which they view haughtily. Some of the most influential of our society women declare that the subscription dance is doomed. The yadmit that Ned handles it as well as any one could, but they regret that the exigencies compel the admission of the climber. The wealthy old pioneer families that treasure the memory of the grandfather are becoming more insistent than ever in their demand for exclusiveness, and such is the complexity of our commercial life that the task of keeping out the most recent nouveau riche is becoming harder every day. By the way, neither Mrs. Crocker nor Mrs. Carolan ever appears at a Greenway ball, though their names are always on the list, and as they set the pace, their friends are growing fewer at the Czar's functions. So perhaps Ned thinks it advisable to quit before his prestige is eclipsed.—Town Talk.

PREACHING THE "ABUNDANT LIFE"

Professor Benjamin Ide Wheeler's recent address to the graduating students at Dartmouth College, in which he dwelt on the "Perils of Riches," attracted considerable attention in the East, where the remarks of college presidents are gravely recorded and discussed. President Wheeler argued along the lines that great wealth tends to break up homes and make the owners its slaves. "They catch the great characteristic disease endemic in all ultra-modern society, pseudo-motion. Those who cannot move intelligently, hustle; those whose nerves have been shattered in the rush of the day, if they cannot work, move hurriedly." The rich take to yachts, to automobiles, to raising dust—but they have no real errand. They are sick with kinetitis, and their vision of purposeful movement towards a goal has nothing in it more real than the snakes of an alcoholic dream. One of the saddest features of these lives pursued by wealth, declares President Wheeler, consists in their isolation from humanity. And he goes on to show that "sound judgment and clear perspective in the motives and movements of human life are seldom found among those people of the caste who drag the golden ball and chain." If you want to know what is stirring in the hearts of the American people you cannot find it out in Wall street. The men immured there are wont to underestimate the intelligence of the American people. They recognize that the people have learned that they are paying from 20 to 30 per cent for insurance only when the diminished returns for new insurance comes in, and "they learn reluctantly that Theodore Roosevelt has for his integrity of purpose the confidence of the farms and firesides of the nation only when the votes come in."

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

President Wheeler handles Roosevelt and the Roosevelt ideas like Wolsey toying with the bubble ambition. He closes his address with a preaching on politics, lauding the strenuous citizen who is "Johnny on the spot" when the sun rises on election day. "If you are going to effect anything important against the Beelzebub of politics you have got to join the organization and fight him with machine guns, and not with mugwumpian bean-blowers. The canny advice which old business men sometimes give young men, to let politics alone lest it interfere with business and alienate customers, is the advice of small caution that partakes of cowardice. The self-protected type of man that is always looking out for his own precious cuticle and is afraid of bumps will not live the abundant life." And so, close at the heels of Roosevelt, President Wheeler expands on the "abundant life." This being his last official utterance there is every likelihood that the coming semester will be full of football and the abundant life. "Bruises and toil, covered with dust and harsh with publicity, but it is a man's life and the life of red blood, which the cautious, cowering life of private mindfulness is not."—Town Talk.

McANENY DIVORCE

The McAneny divorce case has all the earmarks, so to speak, of an affair that promises to develop into a lovely scandal. I seldom have I seen a case of this sort open up in such a promising way for the yellow newspapers. Already an added interest has been lent to the scandal by the linking of the fair plaintiff's name with that of her talented young attorney, Lloyd Robbins. The rumor comes on sturdy wings that, just as Mrs. McAneny is free and can legally form another matrimonial alliance, she will become Mrs. Lloyd Robbins. Whether that be true or not it is a fact that Mr. Robbins has a sentimental interest in the case, for Mrs. McAneny's father was the best friend of Mr. Robbins' father. The latter is now a rich man, but it is said that Mr. Mastell gave him his start in life, and I believe Mr. Robbins very willingly concedes that fact. This being so nothing is more natural than that Lloyd Robbins should figure as Mrs. McAneny's champion in a legal battle which means so much to her. I have heard that the elder Robbins insisted that his son should take the case and thus help to pay the debt of gratitude which the father owes to his dead benefactor. The latter cannot profit by such payment, but his daughter may. All of which gives fresh interest to this old, old story of the rose of June withering in the frost of bleak December. Mr. McAneny is 72 years old, and his wife who wants to shake him is 36. That is a disparity which can hardly be bridged by sacks of gold or broad leagues of land. It is said that the published statements of Mr. McAneny's wealth have all been ridiculously low. Shrewd business men declare that he is enormously wealthy, and scarcely knows himself how much his holdings in mines and lands are worth. Mrs. McAneny's attorneys will come very near finding out before they get through with the case. An interesting statement in Mrs. McAneny's amended complaint is that her aged husband deposited $1500 monthly in a San Jose bank as her allowance for clothes. He insisted, it is averred, that she should not save a cent of this pin-money, but spend it all on dresses and millinery. Oh joy! I can see the grave and learned judge listening to all this and the allegations of how the aged hubby, with the essence of love in his heart changed to gall, choked his lovely young wife and broke her thumb, and tried to get back the gifts with which he had showered her. It is not difficult to foresee what is going to happen to multi-millionaire McAneny's bank roll when the thoughtful and attentive jurist figures up with a long pencil and a large sheet of paper just how much alimony is necessary to a fair divorcee who has been voluntarily allowed $1,500 a month for clothes by her doting old hubby. The plaintiff's attorneys threaten to call as witnesses a society woman to whom "for no consideration" Mr. McAneny is said to have given $3500 and another lady who benefited by his gallantry to the extent of $1,500. If this threat be carried out the case will become almost as sensational as the famous Baron von Schroeder versus John D. Spreckels libel suit.—Wasp.

STOPPED AT THE TAVERN

Governor Carter of the Hawaiian Islands, on his way East for conference with President Roosevelt, stopped at the Tavern, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Walsh of Oakland. Mrs. Ellen Shenill Babcock, mother of Congressman James Sherman of New York, for whom the Indian School at Riverside is named, is one of the Eastern guests. She is accompanied by Mrs. L. B. Moore, also of New York. Walker Salisbury, a relative of James G. Blaine, and who has distinguished himself throughout the country as an amateur tennis player, is visiting with friends at Tahoe City. The Fred Magees are at the Tavern and the Will Magees will be up in August. John Herd, the Chauncey Depew of Market street, is at the hotel now, also the A. Schillings and their family.—Town Talk.

MISS TOY LIKES EUROPE

The fascination of Europe has evidently taken firm hold upon Mabel Toy, for she has not yet written a word about returning home, though she has now been abroad a year. She is a frequent guest at the American Embassy in Berlin. The Toys knew Mrs. Charlemagne Tower well when she was Gertrude Smith of Oakland, and Mrs. Tower is always delighted to entertain her Californian friends. I hear that when Mrs. Tower visits California in the autumn the Toys will give a large reception for her.—Town Talk.

THEY ARE IMMUNE

I don't believe that any of those New York society people were compelled by fear of exposure to subscribe for "Fads and Fancies" and "America's Smart Set." The necessity for blackmail is not sufficiently apparent to warrant the belief that they had to be frightened into this scheme. I am of the opinion that they scarcely needed urging. The smart set is always eager for notoriety and always willing to pay the price of any advertisement that will confirm the assumption that they are the real aristocracy of this fierce democracy. Those who may be subject to blackmail are immune by reason of constant exposure in the columns of the sensational daily press, and generally, when the tribute taker comes around they are able to defy his demand with the retort: "I have been published; if you annoy me I will have you arrested." Only the climber who has not yet reached the top of the social ladder is lucrative game for the hyena of the press. The climber must come into the presence of the elect with clean hands. After he has been elected his sins may be as scarlet. That is why the climber is always paying tribute to the collector of blackmail. He is not ashamed of his immoralities; he is afraid that he will not be admitted if he is found out before he gets in.—Town Talk.

ATTENTIVE TO PEARL LANDERS

Miss Pearl Landers, to whom Joe Eastland has been so attentive this summer, has had more than one woman's share of offers of marriage from wealthy young men with glittering prospects. Her first fiancé was Harry Scott, the scion of a distinguished and influential family. The Whittell family would have been delighted to have seen the erratic heir to their large fortune lead Miss Landers to the altar, but she said nay to the program, and the manly, but headstrong, George sought consolation for his giscardment in a marriage with a fascinating young beauty of the stage. His name has been noticeably missing of late from the newspaper reports of court proceedings, so that the inference is reasonable that marriage has toned down the exuberance of his youthful spirits. The understanding is that if young Mrs. Whittell can keep her husband within bounds for a year the doors of the paternal mansion will swing open to her for good and all. It is a prize, social and financial, that is well worth an earnest effort. Miss Landers' latest suitor has advantages over his predecessors, for his fortune is not prospective, but actual. His wife will not be subject to the whims of any parent-in-law, for he is in full possession of his estate. The late Mrs. Joe Eastland was a very handsome and attractive woman, whose personality so impressed local society that she is still spoken of in terms of the highest praise. She left many handsome jewels to her sons. Tom Eastland bestowed his share on his handsome wife, who was Miss Helen Wagner. By the way the Tom Eastlands enjoyed very much their honeymoon visit to the Parker Whites in Maine this summer.—Wasp.

WANTS HIS WIFE BACK

Nat Goodwin announces that he is going to try to lure his wife back to San Francisco; and with that object in view he is buying real estate here. Mrs. Goodwin likes San Francisco, for it is one of the cities where she is received socially. Those who know the couple will say that the genial Nat will have to do something besides buying real estate in this thriving burg to induce his beautiful wife to locate here. She has been soaring up to a great height in the theatrical world of late, and is a star of such exalted altitude that theatrical astronomers, like Ashton Stevens has as hard a time finding flaws in her as in locating spots on the sun. She no doubt has a great regard for Nat, but to come home and settle down like a plain housewife—that is a different story. She makes a good deal more money now than her husband, and from the financial standpoint the man who made her professionally can be of no further use to her. It is an exceptional actress who fails to take critical note of such things. The King of England has been pleased to say complimentary things of herself and her acting; and that being so, England at present is at her feet. She enjoys the English mode of life, and plays golf a great deal and goes in for outdoor amusements generally.—Wasp.

LEFT SMALL BEQUEST

There has been some criticism of the small bequest of one thousand dollars left by Mrs. Coulton to her grandchild Sacher. It was not unexpected by those who knew the history of the Colton family. The child that has been given such a small legacy is the grandchild of Mrs. Colton's daughter who married Crittenden Thornton, the well known lawyer. Mrs. Colton and Mr. Thornton did not get on very well together, and the mother-in-law showed much less regard for her Thornton grandchild than for the offspring of her favorite daughter, Mrs. McLean Martin. Mrs. Thornton died and that severed all relations between Crittenden Thornton and his mother-in-law. His daughter Helen married Siegfried Sacher, an opulent Jewish banker of Berlin, and it is his child who has received such a pittance that a contest of Mrs. Colton's will is expected. Aside from her feelings to Crittenden Thornton, it is thought that the great wealth of Banker Sacher influenced Mrs. Colton to cut off the Sacher child and enrich the descendants of Mrs. McLean Martin. Crittenden Thornton, who married one of the Colton girls, was then a young and handsome lawyer with bright prospects. His family was a distinguished Southern one and his father was a Supreme Court Justice of California. Miss Colton was a handsome woman and the marriage seemed ideal but it did not realize the expectations of the young couple's friends. The antagonism between his mother-in-law and Mr. Thornton was a matter of notoriety, and that it left its impression on the mind of Mrs. Colton appears to be shown by her bequest of only one thousand dollars out of her large estate to Crittenden Thornton's grandchild.

THE BRUGUIERES

Society gossip is busy with the affairs of Dr. Pedar Bruguiere and his wife, which have reached an acute stage. Although there is no legal separation the pair maintain different households, he having a flat at Steiner and Post streets and she with her two-year-old son, Pedar Sathar Bruguiere Jr., living at the Hotel St. Francis. The trouble began about a year ago the Fourth of July, when Mrs. Emil Bruguiere, who was summing at Santa Cruz, invited her brother-in-law down. Something prevented Mrs. Pedar from accompanying her husband, and that proved to be, as it turned out, very unfortunate. Staying with Mrs. Emil was a young girl, the step-daughter of a well-known candy man, and she and the susceptible doctor, it is said, immediately struck up an ardent friendship. After they had returned to town the friendship continued and became so distasteful to Mrs. Bruguiere that she demanded an explanation, which the doctor was unwilling or unable to furnish satisfactorily, and so the separation took place. The doctor continues his visits to the home of the young woman on Valencia street and declares that he has a perfect right to do so, as the physician of her father. Mrs. Bruguiere's indignant female friends declare that they have seen him several times sitting on the lawn conversing with the young lady, and also observed her and a girl friend whirling round town in the doctor's automobile. It is also said that a sort of family excursion to Mexico is planned in which the doctor will play the triple role of host, chauffeur and chaperone. Things are evidently working up in fine shape to a divorce court denouement. It would not be a novel experience to the talented Dr. Pedar, as he was divorced from his first wife Madeline, the daughter of the late Judge McKissick. His present wife, whom he induced to marry him at Reno before the required year had expired, was a Miss Andrews, the daughter of a good old Southern family. She is refined, graceful and pretty, and, it is said, the doctor's mother has taken sides with her.—Wasp.

SHE LOOKED WELL

I never saw Miss Leslie Green look better than she did last week at the luncheon given in her honor by her prospective mother-in-law, Mrs. H. E. Huntington, at the Palm Garden of the Palace. It is lovely the way the Huntingtons have taken to their son's fiancée, and Miss Green is delighted, as anyone who looks at her happy face may see. There were forty guests at the luncheon, only a few of whom were from Oakland and Berkeley. The decorations and service were as chic as the Palace could make it, and that is saying much.—Wasp.

PUNCHED A FOOTPAD

That President J. W. Byrne of the Pacific Union Club punched a Parisian footpad and captured the thief appears to be no fairy tale, although first told in the Paris edition of a New York newspaper. The footpad asked the time of day, and when Mr. Byrne took out his watch made a grab at it and got a good thump on the ear for his impertinence. A few more well-directed jolts took all the fight out of the marauder, and the gendarmes took him off to prison, a rather badly damaged knight of the road. To Mr. Byrne is largely due the credit for the present fine home of the Pacific Union Club. He is an enthusiastic golf-player, a good-looking athletic man, whom a prudent footpad would rather avoid than encounter.—Wasp.

SOCIETY SURPRISED

Society across the bay was a good deal surprised at the announcement of Miss Edna Tretheway's engagement to Mr. J. Eisenbach, of the Wells-Fargo Bank, of San Francisco. It was not that Miss Tretheway is not charming enough to be caught in Cupid's toils, but, although she is barely nineteen, she has always declared that she should devote her life to art, she being a musician of no mean ability. But the resolution of a girl's youth vanishes like mist before the sun, when the one man in the world comes along, and cards are now being prepared and will be issued ere long for the nuptials which are to take place in September. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tretheway of East Oakland. I understand that the groom is a singer of note and that their similar tastes and talents was what drew the couple together.—Wasp.

"ROUGHING IT" IS THE STYLE

A week or two of "roughing it" is now on the programme of a successful summer season. Society has learned the lesson of contrast, and realizing that the conventional joys stale unless jolted now and then, they are taking to the woods to get "next" to nature. A great many people have permanent camps, where they can run when the shut-in life palls. E. W. Hopkins has a camp at Boca, where he takes his family for two or three weeks every year, and there they get a whiff of the Sierra outdoors, which braces them for the strenuous life of society women.

There are any number of these permanent camps scattered along the Russian river. Several prominent Bohemian Club members have pitched wickiups near the grove, where the followers of the owl hold their midsummer jinks. The Fields have one of the most complete canvas country homes in the State. There are something like a dozen tent bedrooms, each one as dainty and completely furnished as in any country home; a library, living room and all the other accessories of a house are found in this ideal camp. The week of the Fourth the Fields entertained Joe Redding, Dick Hotelling and a score of congenials. With Charley Field as master of ceremonies a celebration was held that will go ringing down the memories of the guests as the "greatest ever."

The Adirondacks are honey-combed with camps that are log or canvas palaces, and it seems a pity that more Californians should not realize the possibilities and delights of this sort of summering—camping, with all its privations and hardships eliminated, and yet enough of the flavor left to give it a tang. Sleeping out of doors acts as a sedative on jangling nerves, and at least part of every summer should be spent in this way.—News Letter.

SAM DAVIS' FISH STORY

Sam Davis, of Nevada, has been fishing. Whenever Sam goes fishing the world, the flesh and frequently the devil are astonished by his catch. Sam believes in pulling forth from the mighty deep the secret manifestations of nature, and preserving them for the benefit of science. If science won't stand for the catch Sam puts it in a chowder and enjoys physically that which weaker philosophers refuse to enjoy from a purely intellectual standpoint. Thus does the wise man of Carson give strength to the ancient saying that the seat of a man's wisdom is his stomach. But he is persistent in his attentions upon science, notwithstanding the calls of the stomachic part of his nature. Davis is no vulgarian, living for himself alone. Whatever he cannot eat he readily ships to the Smithsonian Institute, to be studied by the savants in the hope that they may discover it and give it a name. According to the veracious Davis, he has just shipped to Washington a wonderful creature hooked by him in the Truckee. It is about two feet long, looks like a fish, has nine legs with which it tried to run away after its captor had landed it on the bank, and sports a rudder-like tail, flanked by two wings. Sam says that after he had taken the hook from the thing's mouth it would run off a few feet and climb on a tree and bark. It did this several times, until it got a good look at its captor. Then it saw the man behind the hook was Sam Davis, and it dropped dead. The story of Mr. Davis is vouched for by several eminent Nevadans. Strangely enough, they disagree about the color of the animal, some saying it was pea-green and others averring it was lobster red. Davis says the animal changed color several times. It should be stated that Mr. Davis and his friends are very temperate men.—News Letter.
